

EUROPE ASTONISHED

AT THE RESULT OF THE AMERICAN ELECTIONS.

The Continent Laboring Under a Misunderstanding—Mr. Balfour's Plans for Pacifying Ireland—The Queen to Build an Irish Palace.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Europe has not yet recovered from astonishment at the result of the American elections. While in England the immediate consequences of the election are not as yet ascertained, the continent has been filled with false hopes. The industrial centers, beginning to suffer from the effects of the new tariff, have been revived. Frenchmen, Germans and others dependent on American trade have been led to believe in an instant change of policy and expected nothing less than the resignation of the cabinet and a speedy repeal of the McKinley tariff and the consequent opening of the newspaper men, ignorant of the American constitution and law. While rejoicing at the apparent triumph of its pet free trade doctrine, England views the McKinley tariff as a step towards the way to hard and the time long distant to overthrow a deep rooted national policy.

As the reassembling of parliament approaches there is an apparent disposition on the part of the British newspaper men, ignorant of the American constitution and law. While rejoicing at the apparent triumph of its pet free trade doctrine, England views the McKinley tariff as a step towards the way to hard and the time long distant to overthrow a deep rooted national policy.

THE HURRICANE.

Senator Stockbridge, Tells What He Knows of the Hurricane.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—"The result in Michigan was believed as great a surprise to the Democrats as to the Republicans," said Senator Stockbridge to a reporter here today. "I was at the scene of a good deal of talk just before the election, and I was not able to discover any special cause for apprehension anywhere. I do not think dissatisfaction with the result of the election is any more than to be expected. The McKinley law, then?"

Stimley Must Explain.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Pall Mall Gazette has published a long article on the telnet controversy. The article charges against Bartlett and Jameson cannot be allowed to rest, especially as Stimley himself has denied his own statements in the Pall Mall Gazette of August 31 and published December 21, in connection with the article. The article was simply a denial. In the face of the fact that Stimley has denied his own statements, it is bound to produce every other means that he can to sustain the charges he now makes.

Boulenger's Latest Effort.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—An address has been issued by Gen. Boulenger to the voters of Clignancourt, in which they are advised to abstain from voting. The general address is the latest effort of Boulenger, the assistance of the conservatives, and confessions that he should not have relied on the support of the Conservatives. He will, he says, hereafter devote himself exclusively to the cause of the people.

Ingalls Will Be Defeated.

TOPEKA, Nov. 8.—The Republicans now admit that Senator Ingalls will be defeated for reelection. The weight of the alliance will have 92 votes on joint ballot in the legislature, only 92 being necessary to elect a senator. The candidates for senator, John Willis, the former candidate for governor, and Judge W. A. Puffer, editor of the Kansas Farmer, Judge Puffer claims that he received plenary of the state legislature in the caucus of the state legislature in Topeka. He is a grocerman at Trinidad, was killed by Gregg early in June.

KENTUCKY BLOOD SPILLED.

Desperate Election Day Duel in East Kentucky.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 8.—There was a terrible election day duel in East Kentucky, at the town of Irvin. The men engaged in the affair were Dr. P. Lilly, a prominent young physician of that town and a son of Judge H. Clay Lilly, on the one side, and John W. Wilson, a student of common schools in East Kentucky, on the other side. Lilly was a Republican and Wilson a Democrat. Lilly brought up a negro to the polls to vote, when Wilson challenged his right to cast a ballot. The judges coincided with Wilson and the negro was rejected. This angered Lilly and he went on to receive two balls from his antagonist, both landing near the heart. The wounds, however, were not immediately fatal and the dreadful combat continued for some time. Lilly, who was struck Lilly near the heart, once or twice, this time Wilson's brother interfered and succeeded in wresting Lilly's weapon from him. Lilly was then wounded and almost in the throes of death he drew a knife and made several fatal wounds in Wilson's body. Lilly died in his pistol. Grant Lilly, a brother of the slain, who appeared on the scene, inflicted a wound on Wilson's head with this, Wilson crawled over to where he was lying and buried the name of his pistol in the ground. In addition to the men already named as being shot, three other persons received wounds. One of these was a girl, who was killed. The affair was the most desperate that ever occurred in East Kentucky. It was a tragedy. Grant Lilly is also dead. All who were engaged in the difficulty should have been held accountable. Judge Lilly gained a national reputation by trying the mountain desperadoes of Kentucky for the murder of a man.

President Harrison's Annual Thanksgiving Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The president today issued the annual Thanksgiving proclamation as follows: By the president of the United States of America, Grant, in the name of Almighty God the people of this nation have been led to the closing days of the past year, which has been full of the blessings of peace and the comforts of plenty. Bountiful compensation has been made for the wrongs of men and hands in every department of human industry. Now, therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States of America, do hereby appoint Thursday, November 27, to be observed as a day of prayer and thanksgiving, and I do hereby invite the people upon that day to cease their labors, meet in their accustomed places of worship to praise the Beneficent Creator for the rich blessing He has granted to us as a nation, and in invoking the continuance of His protection and grace for the future.

AN OLD WOMAN'S TREASURE.

She Carried a Fortune in the Lining of Her Dress.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—A German woman named Klutz was struck by a car on the Fifth street electric railway last Thursday, sustaining injuries which necessitated her removal to the city hospital. Tonight she died, having been in a comatose condition for several days. The undertaker summoned to embalm the body found in the lining of the woman's winter coat a small deposit of $3,000 and much to property in this city worth fully as much more. Mr. Klutz was supposed to be in poor circumstances. A daughter is the only heir to the property.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Janushek's engagement at Powers' was scarcely a success financially.

Janushek's engagement at Powers' was scarcely a success financially, although the performances were all excellent—better than the majority of attractions seen here. The idea of presenting "Meg Merriles" in a forcible and pathetic manner at the matinee yesterday afternoon and last evening "Macbeth" was played to a light house. Janushek is the only actor who has only here years left against her a little in the more vigorous scenes. She is one young woman who can do with her hands. Her gestures sometimes tell more than her words. J. W. Jennie was a heavy and rotten clumsy "but" A. H. Stuart did some excellent acting as Macduff. In announcing the murder of the king he rose to a height of eloquence which was superb. Taken all in all, the performance was an intelligent and entertaining one.

Business Men Think of Making it an Annual Occurrence.

The asphalt ball, which has become so enthusiastically over their new street. Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Briggs, Dickman and others in discussing the asphalt ball, presented the idea of making the celebration should be repeated annually, and that it should be made still more elaborate than the one of Thursday night. In order to take care of the crowd seats will be erected at the intersection of the two streets and place partitioned off for dancers. One idea advanced was to fence along the street railway tracks for the time being and thus leave the side free for the promenaders.

LOST HIS TICKET.

And Found It After an Exciting Search.

John Benjamin was about the busiest man in the city Monday for a couple of hours and at one time he was so busy over a little matter that he was sorely perplexing his memory. Mr. Benjamin has a fine gold watch valued at $125 which he carries with him. Yesterday he visited several places. His rounds had occasion to note the time of day. Horror of horrors! When he felt for his watch it was not in his usual place and the fact caused a feeling of surprise to come over him that was observed by his friends who chanced to notice the actions of Mr. Benjamin. He had to admit it, but finally he made a clean breast of the matter and commenced to retrace his steps, looking everywhere for the ticket. He must have left it at home, he thought, but a thorough search of the home from door to garret failed to produce the coveted watch. Even the services of a plumber who joined in the search for the watch during the whereabouts of the water pipes were taken from the party. Mr. Benjamin then went to the office and opened to find the ticket in his pocket. The stairs, diving into the oak case, he extracted the valuable watch, tucked it into his pocket and returned home. His friends would not learn of his little experience.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1890. THE RECORD NOT CLEAR. The Detroit Times, echoed by other Republican papers, claims that the long extended career of power run by the Republican party in Michigan has been honored and that the state will be turned over to the Democrats with a clear record for the Republicans.

This claim is fairly sustained on the face of the record, but we doubt if it will stand so after the investigation. The crooked antics of Jim Turner, ward manager of the school for the blind, revealed by Prof. McElroy, are samples of what may have happened in other departments of the state government if the truth were known.

This record was carefully looked up and concealed by Gov. Luce, but by what right the governor of the state so treated this remarkable revelation of Mr. Turner's turpitude cannot be explained. The public officer who will do such a thing is placed on the same level with the corruptionist himself. It is said the records of stolen goods as had as a chief; Gov. Luce can make the application, and the "farmer governor" at last appears in this transaction the tricky politician and brings shame to the honest, hard working, noble man with whom he has claimed himself for political office. Had Gov. Luce been honest with his party and put these charges against Turner on file in the proper archives of the state, Turner never have put up his head in office and this revolution in politics would not have been so disastrous to his party in Michigan.

But passing over this Turner revelation by Prof. McElroy, the real question of what may be seen by a nearer view in other parts of the state government, we predict that the true history of all the land seals in Michigan would forever damn many of the millionaire leaders of the dominant party. The record in part may be made clear in the next state election. Any one fairly acquainted with the land deals in the upper peninsula must be impressed with the belief that their foundation is partly favoritism and that fraud will be found stamped indelibly upon the whole policy that has robbed the people of homesteads and the state of its rich dowry from the national government.

There are men in this state in high place who stand on ground as dangerous to their millions and their honor as ever any thief put foot on.

FALL INTO LINE. The Chicago Journal is the leading evening organ of the Republican party in that great city. It is following articles forth the sentiments as maintained by the MORNING PRESS during the campaign, for it was sprung by a few readers who claimed it was a Democratic organ.

The sweeping Democratic victory of Tuesday last, extending practically all over the United States, was due simply to the dissatisfaction of the people with the provisions of the McKinley bill. There was no other general issue. The voters of the United States have declared that they do not want a tariff of the sort imposed by that measure. It matters not at all that the nature of the tariff has not been fully understood. It matters not that the tariff was a protection tariff. It matters not that the McKinley bill provided for taxation of this class.

Tariff reform declared for by the Republican party was decided by some of its leaders to mean a tariff greatly increased, and the rank and file of Republican congressmen were misled. They committed a grave error. They did not represent the true sentiment of their constituents. They were misled by the polls by their friends. There was no Democratic tidal wave but a Republican tide which swept everything before it.

MONTANA has maintained that view of her political complexion taken by the Democrats. The election in Silver Bow this year puts the Democratic party in control, so sitting for Montana in an uncomfortable way.

This city should feel greatly interested in the Masonic fair to be held next week. The citizens must take special pride in making it a great success. The receipts are to be donated to the completion of an institution that will make this city a mecca for the members in state of one of the noblest secret orders of the world both ancient and modern.

What will the Republicans do with Quat? If the man had the least bit of shame about him he would at once vacate an honorable position. He is a member of the Republican committee and his seat in the senate and retire to the most retired retirement possible in private life. He must be happy that he did not have to wear striped clothing.

The conspicuous victory on the Democratic tickets of Tuesday last are being added to the party's list of available candidates for president. Pattison of Pennsylvania, and Russell of Massachusetts, are the big names. Mr. Cleveland is not likely to be innocuous in the national Democratic convention.

The next legislature is going to be an arena in which men of brains and honesty can win glorious honors. The call is for statesmen and patriots inspired with the wishes of the good people of the commonwealth.

TWO OF THEM RETURN TO THE CITY. C. P. Friend of East Paris called at police headquarters yesterday morning and reported that at about 10 o'clock Friday morning two girls stopped at his house and warmed themselves. They then left and went down the D. & N. track toward McCloud, stating that they were going to Lansing.

Yesterday noon when the D. & N. train arrived from Lansing, Lizzy Kelly and Sarah Angell, the two girls mentioned yesterday as having disappeared from the asphalt masquerade Thursday night, were found among the passengers. Police officers and the investigating officers, where they said that Canal street was a grand ball that they had been to and it went to a dance on that night where they met a couple of young men who were cowboys. When they started for home the cars had stopped on McCloud, having a rig, offered to take them home. They were accepted and they drove into the country about eight miles, they think, when one of the fellows insisted the Kellys and Angells girls jumped out over the wheels and scudded for a house which was in the woods. They were accompanied by a colored man known to one of the girls. They stayed there all night and in the morning started for home as they were on the railroad track. They went the farm house, where they stayed Friday night, and this morning went on to McCloud, where a strange man paid their fare to Grand Rapids.

The mother of the Angell girl called her daughter as headwaiter at the state her roundly for her behavior, at the same listening with interest to the story of her travels. She apparently well started in fast life and the officers think they should be sent to the industrial school at Adrian.

Police Court Notes. Three drunks adorned the box in Police court yesterday at the early morning session. Charles Hathaway headed the list, and in default of the regulation fine was committed to county jail for 12 days.

Geo. Carr, in addition to being drunk, was also convicted of disorderly conduct and swelled the treasury to the amount of $6.25.

The charge of a breach of the peace against Henry Baker was nolle prosequi Monday at 10 o'clock. John Denton will be given a chance to explain his conduct on a charge of being disorderly. Kluge Riss the officer of Denton, will also be given a chance to explain her desire to possess a dress belonging to Lisette O'Neil without first putting up the money for the same. Her case will be heard Thursday.

Jacob Noon, the boy who threw stones through a cable car window on Taylor street will have a hearing Tuesday. Leonard DeBerry, a street boy, can get Judge Holmes all about it Monday. John Dolan, the man who has been playing the court for a year or more, was finally disposed of yesterday by the court ordering a commitment issued on an conviction for non-support.

The Frank Koch assault and battery case was adjourned again until Monday. For assaulting F. Johnson, John Huntly will have a hearing Wednesday. Henry Baker was arrested on a new warrant charging a breach of the peace, the old warrant being defective. Baker pleaded not guilty and will be heard Tuesday.

IN THE APRIARY.

Helpful Hints About the Successful Wintering of Bees.

The season is at hand when the wintering of bees becomes a subject of importance to apiarists in the northern states. Beekeepers concur in the statement that as yet no plan has been devised that combines all the essentials to successful wintering. Thomas G. Newman names the following as absolute requisites for safe wintering: 1. The best apicultural authorities agree with him: 1. An even temperature, varying from 45 to 50 degrees. 2. Complete exclusion or absorption of moisture from the body of the hive. 3. Perfect freedom from outward disturbances. 4. Protection of stores from contact with the frost. 5. Protracted isolation from atmospheric changes in the spring. 6. Protection of light. 7. Sufficient stores for winter consumption.

Whether to winter bees in a cellar or on summer stands is an open question. Some practice one plan and some another. When one has a dry cellar, in which a uniform temperature can be maintained, the cellar is an excellent place. Apiarists vary as to when bees should be put into the cellar. Some do this as soon as the bees are through storing honey, while others leave them until the last moment. As no fixed date can be given, owing to the variation of seasons, the following are good general rules: 1. To leave the bees until they are through brooding pollen and have a flight or two after it. Where the weather is fairly late the bees will exhibit but little activity when slightly disturbed. It will be wise, however, to make the move as carefully as possible. Among the various devices that have proved effective in ordinary winters for wintering bees on summer stands are: 1. The use of hives. There are double walled hives with four or five inch chambers filled with chaff. These hives are preferred by such well known apiarists as J. J. Cook and O. O. Poppleton. Mr. Poppleton's directions for using these hives run somewhat as follows: "Pack before cold weather and do not remove the packing until the cold weather has come to stay. Place on all sides of the bees fine chaff, below as well as above. Have as much chaff as possible inside the hive and outside the packing, and do not let the bees have any rest on the packing. It will be found more convenient to confine the chaff in sacks. Cover the bees on a few frames and the packing close together. Make winter passages through all the combs. Some apiarists use sawdust in place of chaff. Another plan is that of surrounding the hives with turpentine, leave the hives at 3 p. m. Monday will be motion day in the Circuit court.

Rev. J. Glenn, the colored minister, wants to go back to Charleston, S. C., his old home, to live, and his friends are asked to contribute to that end.

John Hennis of Logan street was reported to the superintendent of the poor yesterday as being insane. His case will be investigated by Mr. May tomorrow.

A jury was "struck" yesterday in Justice Brown's court which is to determine whether Henry Brown is liable for Ferris S. Griffith $202.31 for the training and keeping of a trotting pair.

The annual meeting of the Humane society will be held next Tuesday evening at the Park Congregational church when officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

Dr. Jackson gives his third lecture on the subject of "Problems of the Future" at the Street Baptist church this evening. Subject—"How are we responsible for Adam?"

If "A. Prohibitionist" who sent a communication to the Monroe Press yesterday will send his address to the paper his article will receive attention.

Miss Hill, 90 Wilson street, scarlet fever; Ella Rettiger, 171 James street, diphtheria; and Angelina Karpinski, 180 Potomac street, scarlet fever.

The cases of contagion reported yesterday.

Jerome Coffin, the man convicted of selling liquor on the steamer "Grand Island" was before Judge Burch yesterday for sentence. He was fined $50 and $25 costs imposed was paid tomorrow.

Among the paintings presented to the Masonic fair is a contribution from the brass of the Shaggy Wendover representing a Shaggy Canadian pony. The painting for an amateur is very well executed.

The explosion of a gasoline stove in the house of I. R. Wilson on Monday night, Lafayette street called out a part of the fire department on a still alarm at 11 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The damage was slight.

Yesterday Justice Hydon brought to a close the notorious case of Joseph Dyer by granting David Ackley a judgment and the privilege of retaining possession of the house in which he lives. Joseph Dyer laid claim to it.

It is reported that E. A. Turner, the artist, has received the order to paint a portrait of C. H. Hackley representing to the trustees the keys of the Lackley library.

Mrs. Ada Sheehan of Cincinnati will lecture in Greenwood hall at Canal street, at 10:30 this morning and 7:30 this evening. Mrs. Sheehan is a fine trace speaker as well as an excellent platform test medium. Music will be rendered by a quartette from the Schubert club.

FULTON PARK FOUNTAIN.

Inspected Yesterday by the City Commissioners.

The fountain in Fulton street was inspected yesterday afternoon by the board of public works and committee on parks. The fountain and its appurtenances were found to be in a workmanlike manner; but it was thought that the jets would have to be regulated somewhat.

The upper basins do not fill up and drip over the side as they are designed to do. The jets will be regulated and a watering trough and drinking fountain to be erected in the spring on the east side of the park next to the fountain. The fountain will now be put and painted.

Attempt at Safe Hiding.

Yesterday morning when George I. Quimby entered his home at 215 Canal street, he was greatly surprised at the condition of his safe, and upon a closer inspection he found that some one had been trying to blow the door open. The operators effected an entrance to the office through a rear window and drilled three holes in the outer door to get to the safe.

The safe was found to be in good condition, but it was found that the door had been put in to blow up a dozen safes, but it did not all ignite and the damage was very light. The police department was notified and detectives worked on the case all day, but were unable to locate the intruders.

Wetlands Fifteen Tons.

The new fifteen ton steam roller was taken across the river yesterday for the purpose of setting it at work on West Leonard street. It was thought that it would not be safe to take across the Leonard street bridge, and it was sent across the river at Sixth street.

The Names Were Transposed.

The types in yesterday's Police court notes were in error where they stated that Eliza O'Dell had been arrested for stealing a dress from Eliza Rice. It was the Rice woman who stole the dress from Mrs. O'Dell.

Self Winding Clocks.

A chain of synchronized self winding clocks is being established here through the efforts of Union Telegraph company.

The Western Union Telegraph company. The time pieces do not obtain their motive power from electrical action, but are being actuated by a force from the action of a fine spring, does an ordinary clock. Two small cells of battery are placed in the top of the clock, connected with the mechanism to the lower part of the movement.

As the center wheel, driven by the unwinding of the spring, makes one revolution it raises that unlocks the armature and allows it to spring back into position ready for winding. When the lever drops the circuit is instantly closed, the spring is wound by the pawl fastened to the armature.

The action of winding breaks the circuit when the winding is completed. The contacts are made so short that the action of the battery is very slight, thus enabling it to perform the work of winding for over a year without renewal or alteration. Each clock is provided with a small battery of zinc and carbon cells, which can be controlled automatically by electricity. To secure absolute accuracy throughout the year, the winding of the clock will be connected with a time wire just before 12 o'clock each day.

During the brief period of connection the standard clock at Washington, through the repeating lines takes possession of the wire, temporarily controlling the clock in its circuit.—Springfield Republican.

The Wilderness Cure for Impaired Sight.

Edward Starvoon, son of D. W. Starvoon, of Albany, has been sojourning in the wilderness all summer near the village of Deeds, near the town of Deeds.

For occasional visitors who share his love for the wilderness, he has prepared a list of places to which he will take them.

Mr. Starvoon entered the woods last June, at the advice of his physicians, to seek restoration of impaired vision. The experiment has proved so successful and beneficial that Mr. Starvoon proposes to remain there during the coming winter. His plans for his home for his winter clothing to be forwarded to him.

Mr. Starvoon is a machinist, and was employed in the Edison electric light works near Deeds, N. Y.

His father, D. W. Starvoon, is a physician and he writes away the time in reading, fishing and hunting, and in the woods near Deeds, N. Y.

The former visitor, and he has concluded to remain in the woods until the winter. His plans for his home for his winter clothing to be forwarded to him.

Poor Old Robert Brown.

The irrepressible Robert Brown of 321 North Toth street broke out again last night and refused to be confined and the patrol wagon landed him at police headquarters.

Robert has adorned the police court pen no less than a dozen times within the past year, and each time his presence there was due to the commission of a petty crime. The last time he graced the pen with his presence Judge Holmes allowed him to go to his home, but he was not long in returning to the police court on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Robert has been frequently returned and made it lively for the tenants and his wife. Last night he paid his compliments to the neighborhood and the family being unable to eject him from the house the patrol wagon was summoned and removed him to headquarters on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

An Art Display.

The art display now on exhibition at the Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine parlor, No. 53 South Division street, is about to be closed.

The show in the city. Mr. Henry Lindhout, the agent for this city, extends a cordial invitation to all ladies of Grand Rapids and vicinity to call at once and examine and receive free instructions to accomplish this wonderful art. Beautiful productions in silk, Roman satin, white needle work all shown in extensive varieties. This is the only show in the new No. 5 Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine, which is far ahead of any hand work yet accomplished by any woman.

Special attention is called to the Rosa Bonheur horse fair, a reproduction which is perfect of the original masterpiece.

A South End Enterprise.

The south end has secured another and a valuable enterprise. Kellogg's drug store now occupies the first floor of the handsome new brick block at the corner of Madison avenue and Hall street.

It will be opened to the public Monday morning with a large and carefully selected stock of drugs, medicines, perfumes, stationery, school books and supplies. The store is elegantly fitted up, being furnished in natural oak and presenting a very fine appearance. Mr. Kellogg is a druggist of long experience and preparations will be filled with accuracy and care.

Comfort Considered.

The comforts of life are coming to be more considered every day and especially the home comforts. The gentlemen have a valuable and comfortable and sit around in their shirt sleeves or wear their business coat and wrinkle it all up. Most of them have adopted the Bonheur horse fair, a reproduction which is perfect of the original masterpiece.

Mr. Kellogg is a druggist of long experience and preparations will be filled with accuracy and care.

LOCAL MARKETS.

(CORRECTED DAILY.)

The local market is quiet but firm, the ruling prices being sufficiently high to suit the farmers, compared to former years. Last year, at this time, farm produce was very low and considerable losses were sustained. When, as last year, the crop was better, the price was higher, but the crop has been larger than at first, and, thereby, keeping the price at about the same level. Few have been able to sell their produce at a profit, and many are suffering from a loss of their crops.

It is not at all unlikely that the price of wheat will be higher than last year, and that the price of corn will be lower than last year.

The price of flour is also higher than last year, and the price of sugar is lower than last year.

The price of cotton is also higher than last year, and the price of wool is lower than last year.

The price of iron is also higher than last year, and the price of steel is lower than last year.

The price of copper is also higher than last year, and the price of zinc is lower than last year.

The price of lead is also higher than last year, and the price of tin is lower than last year.

The price of silver is also higher than last year, and the price of gold is lower than last year.

The price of platinum is also higher than last year, and the price of iridium is lower than last year.

The price of rhodium is also higher than last year, and the price of osmium is lower than last year.

The price of palladium is also higher than last year, and the price of selenium is lower than last year.

The price of tellurium is also higher than last year, and the price of bismuth is lower than last year.

The price of antimony is also higher than last year, and the price of arsenic is lower than last year.

The price of mercury is also higher than last year, and the price of iodine is lower than last year.

The price of bromine is also higher than last year, and the price of chlorine is lower than last year.

The price of fluorine is also higher than last year, and the price of oxygen is lower than last year.

The price of nitrogen is also higher than last year, and the price of hydrogen is lower than last year.

The price of carbon is also higher than last year, and the price of sulfur is lower than last year.

The price of phosphorus is also higher than last year, and the price of potassium is lower than last year.

The price of sodium is also higher than last year, and the price of calcium is lower than last year.

The price of magnesium is also higher than last year, and the price of strontium is lower than last year.

The price of barium is also higher than last year, and the price of cerium is lower than last year.

The price of lanthanum is also higher than last year, and the price of praseodymium is lower than last year.

The price of neodymium is also higher than last year, and the price of promethium is lower than last year.

The price of samarium is also higher than last year, and the price of europium is lower than last year.

The price of gadolinium is also higher than last year, and the price of terbium is lower than last year.

The price of dysprosium is also higher than last year, and the price of holmium is lower than last year.

The price of erbium is also higher than last year, and the price of thulium is lower than last year.

The price of ytterbium is also higher than last year, and the price of lutetium is lower than last year.
