RIGHT FEET OF SNOW IN THE SOUTH OF ENGLAND.

London Buried in Snow—Great Havoc on the Channel and Along the Coast—A Steamer Reported Lost.

LONDON, March 10.—The snowstorm that prevailed last night was one of the severest that ever visited England at this time of the year.

The snow fell in such a manner that it was not possible to get out of the city and metropolitan railways were almost completely paralyzed.

The Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh are detained at Dover waiting for the storm to pass.

The mail cart plying between Sittingbourne and Sheerness was snowed up and the driver nearly perished.

A driver sent in search of him is missing and the mail boat nearly sank in the harbor.

The blizzard extended from the Channel to the North Sea.

The Thames from Richmond down to London is now as snowed up as is to be expected.

A police headquarters several persons arrested in connection with the snow drifts.

THE SENATORIAL UNBEATING.

It begins to appear quite plainly that in suddenly and unceremoniously unseating the two Republican senators the Democrats were aiming a blow at the three P. of I. senators more than at the Republicans.

The Democrats say these men are unseated because their interest could not be served, and that it was necessary to destroy their balance of power at any cost in order to rid the course of legislation of their hindrance and give to the Democrats a right to legislate in accordance with the responsibility devolved upon them by the election.

This is no justification. The exact facts in the case seem to have been so unimportant to the Democrats that they gave, and for the credit of all concerned perhaps they had better not be given. This is true, however, the people do not approve of any dickerings by the P. of I. senators with either party for favors of a such character.

The P. of I. senators were all elected in alliance with the Democratic votes of their district and in all matters of organization they were in honor bound to act with the Democrats.

There was no need of this in the least and Judge Champlin will be entirely justifiable in declining that his candidacy had any reference to that matter, either in approval or disapproval.

TONAY and tomorrow at the state convention the Democrats will elect Judge Champlin to the position of lieutenant governor, the proud feeling gentlemen who shoulder straps during the war, and who now take great pride in belonging to the loyal legion, that exclude the gray body of great and noble Union veterans and replace their loyal legion badge and lapel with the grand army button, who they may obtain a share of the influential honors the grand army men, they desire, have to bestow.

Raw sugar will be admitted free of duty at the ports of this country after April 1, and in consequence it is expected refined sugar will be down to 2 cents a pound as retail sales.

It is probable that the price of refined sugar will be down to 2 cents a pound as retail sales.

Mr. HAMPTON, the game warden, writes learnedly and with many "lines upon lines" in the newspapers about the great importance of his office, with all the duties and responsibilities that attend it.

There is strong evidence that the Democrats have struck a lead to a big political battle in the state.

THE PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Medicine, Surgery and Law. EDITOR MORNING PRESS—Having been interested in the study and practice of medicine for several years past, and being acquainted with most of the different modes of practicing it, I find our school occasionally turns out a good physician. The fact is, it is not so much in the schools he graduates from as it is in the man. I think on an average there is not over one man in three that graduates that is qualified to practice medicine at all, and probably not more than one in fifty that ever becomes competent to deal successfully in the restoration of health from diseased condition. I find in some of the simplest forms of disease patients who have been treated for years by many different physicians without help, when in fact they ought to have been restored to health in a few days, or weeks at most, and usually are, just as soon as they find a doctor who knows what to do and to prescribe. I have heard physicians say that the only science in the study and practice of medicine was surgery. The fact is that to be so one who has only nerve and mechanical skill, but tell you the only real science in the study of medicine is the action of remedies upon the human system. Any man who is mechanical at medicine is sure to be a very poor surgeon; say such a man can use the probe, the knife, forceps and the needle, and it requires but very little education. The only essential part is to know anatomy and the action of the various organs, and in cases of an injury to put the parts in as natural and as comfortable position as possible and wait for nature to do the restoring. Such is not the case of an diseased state of the system, where nothing but the right remedy will save the patient; and even the right remedy will prove fruitless in the hands of an unskilled and unpractical physician. I have known men who waited in suspense, not knowing what was the next move of those above, and last, having done all they could do, a man shouting down to us from the nearest station above. We explained our perilous position in a few words, but they would not listen to us, and they crawled slowly up the shaft again. Still, being afraid the platform would give way, we were obliged to keep hold of the ropes and dance about on the coils as they unrolled.

It was a tedious business, and was all the time the matter of the loss of a cent and a few minutes of time. A FULL OF PERIL. The following Adventure in a Gold Mine Shaft that Seized Two Men. About as tight a place as I ever got into, said Comstock miner, was some years ago in the Empire shaft, Gold Hill. Myself and another man were down in the shaft for the purpose of trimming it up, as the swelling ground was squeezing the sides and it was a good deal out of shape.

We were not on a cage, but simply on a platform of planks, with ropes going up from the corners to the main cable, which was of hemp. When we reached a tight place in the shaft we stopped and trimmed out the sides, then went on till another such place was reached.

At one point, having given the signal to lower, we went down some distance. We reached for the bell rope to give the signal to stop, but we found that it had wound round a nail some distance above, and we could not use it. The engineer knew nothing of our trouble, and continued to lower away. There was no station near, and on all sides rose the smooth walls of the shaft, leaving us suspended over the horrible chasm.

Would Have Preferred Ingratitude. "Ah, then, miss, would you be tellin' a poor old woman, where St. Mary's house is?"

The fashionably-dressed young woman thus addressed stopped as she was walking in Broadway and looked at them on a ragged old crane, the picture of equaler and ill health. Her first inclination was to get away as quickly as possible from the unseemly object, but pity prevailed and she said:

"I'm going past the home myself. Follow me and I'll point it out to you when I reach it."

Then she started on again. If the old woman had only been content to follow quietly the young one would have felt amply rewarded for her kindness by the consciousness of a good deed done; but the old one began in a loud singsong to praise the Lord for sending her so kind and beautiful a lady to lead her to the home.

"Glor' be God!" she almost shouted. "The Lord rest the souls of all the dead belongin' to ye! May the heavens be yer bed, and every year in yer 'Mad a candle round yer coffin to light ye to glory! Holy mother send ye a rich husband and a fine big family" and so on, and a representative of the street all through crowded Fourteenth, and to the vast amusement of the people and the overwhelming confusion of the beautiful benefactor, who could hardly restrain herself from running away.—New York Tribune.

Resting Out Bibles. There is a firm in town that hires out Bibles. There is a popular impression that every family possesses a Bible, a Dictionary and a copy of Shakespeare. This impression, like many popular impressions, seems to be an erroneous one. A representative of the street all through crowded Fourteenth, and to the vast amusement of the people and the overwhelming confusion of the beautiful benefactor, who could hardly restrain herself from running away.—New York Tribune.

Buffalo Heds a Half Century Ago. I think I can truly say that I saw in this region in one day more deer than I have seen of cattle in all my life. I have seen the plain black with them for several days' journey as far as the eye could reach. They seem to be coming northward continually from the distant plains to the Platte to get water, and would plunge in and swim across the river, but so numerous were they that they changed not only the color of the water, but its taste, until it was un-fishable; but they would use it. One night when we were encamped on the south fork of the Platte they came in great numbers, and I saw that they had to get up and then down the river to get to the top of the water, but so numerous were they that they changed not only the color of the water, but its taste, until it was un-fishable; but they would use it. Typoid Fevers CURED. Given up for Dying of Fever by Two of the Best Family Physicians in Grand Rapids.

My daughter Rose had a violent fever and was confined to her bed three weeks. During this time she was attended by two of the best physicians in this city, but they could do nothing for her. She was lying like a corpse; could not move hand or foot, and she suffered dreadfully, but neither of them could get her to sit up or help her in the least, and she was growing worse all the time. We had lost all hope in her case, but I thought I would try once more. December 19, after my daughter had been confined to her bed three weeks, I called on Dr. S. Clay Todd and told him how my daughter was, and he said he could cure her and would have her sitting up tomorrow morning, and that the next day she would get up and be dressed, and she did, and she has improved very fast ever since, and now has a grand appetite and looks to enjoy life herself.
