CITY AND SUBURBS

Dr. Felling and family returned from the northern resorts Saturday evening. Fourteen cases of measles came to the city yesterday from La Porte, Ind., over the C. & N. Hubbard - "Yes, our names are alike, but you see he's long and I'm short, there's where the trouble is."

North Park was patrolled by another large crowd yesterday, many of the excitement being among the spectators. Nearly 1,000 people came in over the C. & N. W. yesterday from Marquette and Grand Marais, and spent a pleasant day in the city.

The Wonderful mazes in the case of a great deal of talk among the ladies, and they all are of the opinion that it is going to be "real nice."

The excursion of the Barbers' Guild to Onawa Park was enjoyed by about 500 people, and to say a good time was had would be drawing it out.

The Hooper ball players were fairly beaten yesterday when they won the game with the home team. A large number of excursionists from down in "Indiana" were among the spectators you know.

The Lower Light proposition is to be considered by the council again tonight. Theo. D. Gilbert is the champion of the "hard cut to crack," but a majority of the aldermen are in favor of buying Detroit's old light.

John Weathers and Thomas Sullivan, two farmers of Walker to sleep, came to the city yesterday. They were in the "overdose of 'buds'." They slept in the county jail last night and will be in Po Leon's this morning.

Nearly 300 members of the Polish Aid society, enjoyed a pleasant excursion to Dearborn yesterday, and there by an equal number of their countrymen. A sliding in the vicinity, who entertained them a pleasant time.

The announcement of the marriage in September of Miss Lena Vandemien and Mr. John D. Windt, is made. Miss Vandemien will be married to the young lady who narrowly escaped death from a gas furnace fire on Huron street about a year ago.

Rev. Peter Moordijk of the First Reformed church preached his farewell sermon last night to a large congregation. He has presided over for 15 years. His home hereafter will be at Chicago, where he will endeavor to start up a new and struggling congregation.

BASE BALL. Evansville Quits with a Record of Three Straight. The last of the series of games between the Evansville's and the home team was played yesterday afternoon to an audience of 100 persons. The home nine was again "swiped" to the tune of 6 to 5, although they played an almost faultless game.

THE SHAMROCKS AND THE HARTS went to Dorr on the excursion yesterday and played a game for the first time since they were organized by the Polish Aid society. The Shamrocks won by a score of 9 to 7 yesterday. Shamrock players are: J. H. Morris; Harte, McDermid and Smith.

THE SHAMROCKS AND THE HARTS played the annual game of the Shamrock club yesterday and were defeated by a score of 6 to 7. The Shamrock grounds are marked by hills and the Shamrock players at a great disadvantage. They are playing at Grandville Hill clubbers at Alger park any day for a purse of $25.

WHERE BEAVERS LIVE.

KILGORE'S BIG FARM INHABITED BY BEAVERS FOR MARKET.

One Man Who Hopes to Grow Rich Out of the Society of these little creatures. Kilgore's Big Farm Inhabited by Beavers for Market. "You have never heard of Dick Kilgore's beaver farm? That's queer."

"You see, Dick has about 200 beavers, young and old, but he has more than twenty to be killed for their skins this year. It's a new industry, an experiment with him, and he don't want to kill any except the surplus males for the moment. But suppose you go out with me and see the farm."

A drive of ten miles through the swamps along Briar creek and the Kilgore place, or Beaver Dam Hollow, was made.

"Now, here's the farm," said Williams, pointing to the creek, across which several yards were rough dams, and above them, in the almost still water, were straight but very long logs of birch lying on top of each other, and extending out a few feet above the surface of the water.

"You know beavers don't show themselves much in the day. They do their work at night. Dick owns about 1,000 acres, running up and down the creek. He has the land fenced and keeps a regular check, but it's not fenced. Fences would not keep the beavers in, but there is no danger of them going off, for this is a natural home for them, and every beaver here knows old Dick. He feeds them every night, and they come, when he reaches the dam, and they are very tame."

Kilgore has been a farmer down here for years, and beavers have been in the creek for all time, but it was not until recently that he began to protect and care for them with a view to making beaver raising a regular business. It is not long since that the scarcity of seal skins has increased the value of beaver skins, and they will continue to increase year by year. A few years ago beaver skins brought as low as four dollars per skin, but they should now bring at least ten dollars each.

Beaver skins sent to London and properly dyed a seal brown are splendid imitations of the seal. The seal fur, you see, is the only place in the world. However, the fur of the beaver is naturally a reddish brown, and is a beautiful fur.

The beaver is a queer little animal. When full grown it weighs from fifty to sixty pounds. Its hind legs are its principal propellers, both when in and out of the water. The beaver has a long tail and the front ones have claws, which are used as convenient to the beaver as a saw. They are used to dig up mud, carry stones and sticks about in their mud in the water especially a beaver can carry a quantity of freight, but he swims with his tail and feet carries his load in his mouth.

Just after dark Mr. Kilgore went down to the edge of the stream to feed the beavers. "I don't often feed them in the summer," he said, "for they get all their food from the banks of the stream. They eat bark off the trees, and at this season there is an abundance of fresh under bark and grasses and roots. In the winter they lay up a supply of food for themselves along the banks and in their holes in the dams, which they build for themselves. I feed them nearly all the time in winter, when they flock together and unite in building dams, but in summer they scatter - every fellow for himself - and I only call them up occasionally, just enough to keep them tame. As they are scattered off for miles around, but few will come to a call for food."

HOW THE BEAVER WORKS. But there was a dozen romping about in the stream, and in a few minutes quite a number had gathered. Among them were a score or more little fellows from two to six years old, and a few more and as a consequence the families in general were very happy.

The mixture of green food and a little grain was thrown out on the ground to the herd of little animals, and they began to eat and picked it up like so many hogs. Some of them would gather up an ear of corn or a young corn stalk and dive off with it into the stream. They were tame, but the beaver would scamp off if you tried to catch one.

A beaver seems to be almost human in intelligence. They actually guard their stream and lead their dam with stones and roots and sticks and grasses, and indeed everything used to dam a stream, until they have practically as much of a dam as they can build. They do this to make the water above deep enough to sport in and placid. They will build their dams in any stream and mud, in which are very warm and comfortable in winter and large enough for a family of eight or ten.
