THE NEW MOVEMENT.

The speech of Col. Norton in the opera house was something fresh and sensible.

In politics, he did not thrash over old straw as do the old party speakers.

His speeches are really striking. Not a new idea is evolved.

They run just the same as they did ten years ago. The arguments pro and con are more stock affairs and to listen to them is wearisome.

Hardly a speech is like old plays in the hands of new actors, they are not interesting on account of the new speaker.

But the speakers for the cause of the People's party have new ideas and they are interesting to hear.

Everything that is said may not be fully approved and may not finally be adopted by the party itself.

The movement is new and not yet perfectly formed.

Much is said and proposed by way of suggestion with the expectation that out of criticism, objection and discussion perfection will come.

The main idea is that our national affairs are going wrong.

The tendency of the nation from a democracy to a plutocratic aristocracy is alarming and that deplorable tendency must be arrested and averted.

There is no disputing the fact. Wealth is increasing rapidly in the hands of the few and the many are getting poorer.

The worst possible sign any free nation can display. This must be stopped.

It cannot be said that this is the result of frugality and industry on the part of the few.

Their extravagance, lawlessness and vice on the part of the many, the mass of the people are as frugal and industrious as Jay Gould or J. D. Rockefeller, but they are not all shrewd gamblers or monstrous monopolists.

We have to grapple with the cause of the poor whose misfortunes are traceable to vice and laziness but we do hardly sympathize with the man who is industrious and saving, but fails to get on because he is not as cunning and dishonest as another who is rapidly becoming rich through improper advantages sanctioned by unjust laws.

The Republic is not safe in its present trend. It is directly bending to a stronger government and the liberties of the people preserved as the fathers designed them.

This is the mission of the People's party and it will barely pursue that grand and noble purpose far beyond the beaten paths of the old parties if it becomes necessary.

The mistakes of the past must be corrected and if there are weak spots in the constitution shown by the experience of our first forty years, national existence they must be strengthened and prepared for the ends of popular government as our fathers intended.

"Paternalism" may go hand in hand with the reforms required, and if it does there will be no discourtesy shown this kindly agency.

HIS LAMENT TOO TRUE.

Telegram-Herald: Mr. Hutchins laments the awful condition into which the farmers have been forced by alleged classification.

How is it that Mr. Hutchins by means of his money to pay campaign expenses?

The T. H. Hutchins, Mr. Hutchins has no money for his campaign.

If he had there would not be the least doubt of his election.

If the People's party could have had $1,000 for speakers and papers the election of Mr. Hutchins would be assured.

It is hoped that the people have learned for themselves what is best for them without the aid of the Fort required to arouse an interest in the party, and that they will go to the polls Tuesday and quietly drop enough ballots for Hutchins to surprise the old tariff hangers and send him to Washington with a higher mission than the usual resolution about the per cent of import duties and how they shall be laid.

A PATRIOTIC FACT.

There is something rotten in the social state when a man is forced to flee from Pennsylvania, with his starved wife and child, must walk forty miles to a great city to find something to eat, and on the way must submit his babe from his own life blood, his mother being too weak to supply nature's necessities.

An incident more pathetic or suggestive seldom appears in this country.

And yet it is said the country is prosperous and the nation happy.

The possibility of such a pathetic fact is proof conclusive that we are close to a vast deposit of misery and social rotteness.

This is not a "calamity howl," it is but a gentle whisper that even in free, generous, glorious America.

Our humanity to man.

Makes countless thousands miserable.

We say to the workmen of the city your brethren in the country are moving.

Mr. Hutchins will be elected if all pull true.

The Evening Leader:

A resolution introduced in the legislature...

Upon what authority does the Leader state that Mr. Lawrence favors "national currency and free silver"?

Mr. Lawrence has failed to vote in any of his speeches.

His platform doesn't favor free silver.

Neither has any prominent Democratic speaker in this campaign except Governor Winans.

For fifteen years Mr. Moulton has been a consistent, earnest, honest advocate of all reforms demanded by labor, and never a selfish party seeker.

The working men of this city should honor him with their votes for police justice.

In that place he will be a credit to his supporters and win the applause of all law-abiding, just people.

The excitement in regard to our relations with Chili continues and is growing.

It looks as if we would have to give that revengeful, spiteful little South American republic a good trouncing.

England had better keep her hands off.

The OHIO CAMPAIGN.

A Correspondent Tells Why He Thinks Campbell Will Be Elected.

New LONDON, O., Oct. 31.—[Special Correspondence.]—To sum up Ohio's feelings, I am sure you will agree that they think Governor Campbell will be re-elected.

In the southeast portion of the state where the Republicans poll a heavy vote the farmers and the People's party are strongest.

An able politician told me yesterday that about two to one were Republicans formerly now belong to the People's party.

You can see how Mr. McKinley's vote will fall short of Mr. Foraker's at the last gubernatorial election.

The estimation is made at 10,000, while in the stronghold of the Democracy where the People's party have no organization the percentage is less as there again the Democrats are less liable to fly the ticket as there can be no swamping of one from one candidate to another under the Australian election law.

Advices from Columbus and other sections show that the knowing ones think Campbell.

A dispatch sent from Columbus to the Philadelphia Enquirer says: "It is conceded here that ex-Governor Campbell will be re-elected."

MORE OF THAT ROBBACK.

Mr. Moulton's Attitude to Labor as Shown by His Action in 1891.

George Shook, well known among the workmen of the city says that he was in a position to know of Mr. Moulton's feelings toward organized labor in 1889 and 1891.

And that one of the first moves Mr. Moulton made after selling off his foundry was to complete his home here.

The first thing was to see how the part of the city he worked.

George Shook, then in Mr. Moulton's employ, was instructed to go to the union and have them send two men.

One of the men was J. A. Curtis. They were allowed to keep their own time and make their own prices, which were better prices, and perfectly satisfactory.

Mr. Moulton spoke in the highest terms of his work performed by Mr. Curtis and said if he had another House to build one of the first things he would do would be to get Mr. Curtis or some other good man, such as the union furnishes on application.

Christianity, Decca—No. 18. Error! MORTINO PRESS—No doubt many of the readers of this column have a great distaste, a distaste amounting to disgust, for anything which savors of religion, because they have been accus-

PATHETIC RESULT OF A WRITERS BIT OF DETECTIVE WORK. The Head Heard That All Beggars Were Wealthy and She Followed a Woman Who Played an Accordion, Expecting to Find a Princely Home—What She Saw...

It is true that religion has been identified with the crowd of speculators of men, and with the ecclesiastical machinery which has been invented to propagate religion, but it would seem that we ought to have outgrown this philosophy.

I was only repeating what had been said to me about street impostors. Now that I have seen a child and a young man of these characters from the window of a hotel, I became interested. Why, with all the money in the pocket of an impostor, Her rings of ornament were elegant, and that personal poverty which appeals so strongly to the sympathetic. Her head drooped over her accordion figure, she sat on the curbstone and mechanically ground out her doleful music.

Then she climbed a pair of rickety stairs on the outside of a tumble down tenement house, and I followed her in my way in the dark to a miserable room in the rear, where a chorus of little voices awaited her.

"Aha, my lady," I said to myself, "here is a chance to get you and see how much of your doleful plea is true. If you are an impostor I shall soon know it," and I slipped along in the shadow of the wall, following her long and winding way, back to the city, it seemed to me.

NO DECEPTION ABOUT THIS. Then she climbed a pair of rickety stairs on the outside of a tumble down tenement house, and I followed her in my way in the dark to a miserable room in the rear, where a chorus of little voices awaited her.

"Mamma, mamma, were good—were been as good as we could. Hasn't we, Johnny?" cried a child, a small, fat little girl lying on the floor in the corner.

"I will frankly admit that it seems out of harmony with the spirit of our time to ask men to go back to the old models, and yet we are doing so in all our departments of human research. I have seen a child and a young man who live as any that have lived in the past. We may have as great a respect for the old as we have for the new, but nevertheless the greatest we now draw much of their inspiration from Jesus, and we have as great a respect for Jesus as we have for the old."

"The woman had dropped her musical burden on the table and now she wiped her forehead. "Der's fifteen cents, 'n' all in pennies, Johnnie, 'n' get some hot sausage an' loaf of bread. An' I'll soon have some good vittles for my little ones."

There is a best way to live; then 'tis best to stand at the head of the parade. It seems to me, has for its chief object the elucidation of its proposition. Jesus has been living and teaching in this world for nearly twenty centuries, and his teachings have been taken up for fresh interpretation by men of every age and nation, and he has devoted years to the closest and most exhaustive study of his life and teachings.

"I heard the woman singing to her sick child before I reached the foot of the stairs. At the corner I met crippled Johnny. He had a brown paper package of food.

Jesus has been living and teaching in this world for nearly twenty centuries, and his teachings have been taken up for fresh interpretation by men of every age and nation, and he has devoted years to the closest and most exhaustive study of his life and teachings.

"Golly, yer ought to see her eat sausage. She just snatches 'em." "Johnny," I asked seriously, "has your mother any more houses and a lot of money in the bank?"
