WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The Democratic caucus resumed its session at 10 o'clock this morning, and without any preliminary proceedings the secretary of the roll-call of the caucus disclosed the presence of 212 members, but others are considered as being present.

There was considerable interest in the ballot for doorkeeper which followed and the nomination of Representative Turner, New York, who received 175 votes.

At 11:30 the caucus adjourned. Speaker-elect Crisp made a short address in which he pledged himself to administer an honest and economical government, adding further: "My election means no step backward in tariff reform."

JUDGE BURLINGAME SOMEWHAT WARM UNDER THE COLLAR.

Sweeney Discharged and Re-arrested—The Office is Run in a Manner that Would Disgrace a School Boy.

Joseph Sweeney, the man charged with felonious assault upon Zwanette DeLass, was yesterday discharged in custody by Judge Burlingame upon a writ of habeas corpus.

The grounds upon which the writ was issued was that the proceedings against him were begun by one police judge and completed by the other.

Sweeney, later in the day, was re-arrested on a warrant sworn out by Detective Joe Smith, and was admitted to bail in Police court, his bond being signed by Alderman Sweeney of Detroit as surety.

In rendering his decision in the habeas corpus case Judge Burlingame displayed considerable irritation and took occasion to read the prosecuting attorney's brief with severe lectures.

"Instead of improving with time, said he, 'the prosecuting attorney's briefs are getting longer every day. Hardly a case is brought before the court but that errors are to be found in them. It is not the first time that has gone on under that account.'

HILL ON SILVER COINAGE. Governor Hill of New York, one of the foremost leaders of the Democratic party in the nation, declares in favor of the free coinage of silver, he is at least ready to say that the silver question cannot be ignored and the tariff question made "the paramount issue" of the presidential campaign.

But Governor Hill's idea of free coinage will not be acceptable to the country. He wants to put more silver in the dollar. It is not the dollar of the daddies that he favors, as we now have, he proposes a dollar of the shillings. He proposes to put enough more silver in the dollar to make it equal to the gold dollar in intrinsic value the world over.

For the benefit of the bond holders and mortgage holders he would create more logs, beef, wheat, corn, flour, hay and days' wages into the silver dollar. In the shape of 25 cents more of bullion. It is such a move far toward the dollar class? How would the proposition strike Governor Hill to equalize the gold and silver dollars by taking the gold out of the gold dollar instead of putting more silver in the silver dollar? Can any one say that would be dishonest to the creditor class? Is not the silver dollar as valuable today as it was ten years ago? Is it not a fact that the difference between the silver and gold dollar of today is caused by the appreciation of gold and the depreciation of silver?

A petition has been circulated during the past week requesting the faculty of the Michigan university to place the Bible in the course of study as required work. Thomas McQueen, of Elkhart, one of the victims of the recent railroad accident at Toledo, formerly resided at White Pigeon. He was a cripple but an excellent telegraph operator.

Harm's monstrosity a combination of codfish and ape, has been beaten out of sight at Sturgis, where they have an exhibition an "alligator boy," a boy's head and neck upon a "gator's" body. Herbert G. Baker of Vicksburg, aged 29 years, died Saturday evening at 7:30 from the effects of ten grains of morphine, taken with suicidal intent. He was a divorced wife and two children.

Bell is wanted for mayhem, but the sheriff has been unable to find him as yet.

On Nov. 1 Miss Isabella Hancock of Nequanau suffered a stroke of paralysis and until last Friday night neither spoke or moved a muscle. Her breathing was scarcely perceptible for a time but she is now in a fair way to recover. The annual charities of Kalamazoo once did a great work as a poverty alleviator, but gradually faded away and left a large number of the poor of the town awaiting a vain effort to receive it a night or two ago.

Two little girls, Nellie McDonald and Mary Hyatt, sleep in the Kalamazoo county jail Saturday night. Their ages are 12 and 13 years respectively and their homes are in South Haven. They wanted to see the elephant.

Kalamazoo Gazette: "A syndicate of gentlemen have been here disturbing the good work looking over the city and railway and they agree to have electric cars running on an eight mile schedule in 100 days after they shall be granted a franchise. The Kalamazoo council will get some valuable pointers on this matter from Grand Rapids people.

Saturday night the building owned by Herman Branson in Fluer City, near Manistee, was totally destroyed by fire. The neighboring buildings were also consumed by the conflagration. The bartender, who slept in the saloon, had become unconscious by reason of the smoke in the building, and it was with great difficulty that he was rescued.

Frank Whitney, of Port Huron, while taking a young sinner to the lock-up nearly a month ago got his hand torn and his foot and was bitten, but not severely. A few days later his hand and wrist began to swell, blood poisoning supervened and for a time a fatal result was feared. His hand is still fearfully swollen but the crisis is passed.

Late Dinner in England. The luncheon lasted hours at which "smart" men now dine, and which would surprise people emulate, have not been exceeded, but the mere hour of going to bed, among the same class, has been later. This party arises from the time necessary to unbind the vast edifices which ladies of fashion once wore on their heads; but it was also held to be a sign of good birth in a thing very different from that breeding to be feared. "The music ends at 10, the company goes to bed."

Lord Derby's cook gave him warning because he had to serve snippers at 2 in the morning. He said they were killing him. "How much," inquired his lordship, "practical but unimpaired, 'who you for your life?'" Walpole asked a new housemaid why she left her last mistress, the wife of the bishop of Worcester. "Because she never went to bed till 4 in the morning." "But surely she does not go to sleep at that?" "No, sir; but I take three maidens to bed."

It seems a little strange to suppose that people of fashion are more foolish than they are to be. James Payn in Illustrated London News.

Mrs. Mrs. Grant's Cardisticks. The lady's cardisticks struck. She has just added to her already large collection of cards, one hundred at different places. She has been filling her cabinets ever since she was married, and her husband rarely returns from a journey without bringing her additional specimens. All nations, art schools, potteries and metals are represented in the collection with her pen and ink. The number of cards in her collection is in the hundreds.

A peep at her collection shows dragons, a peacock, a virgin, a harp, a ruyter, sea monsters, dolphins, warriors, fish-mongers and faded devices in bronze, wrought iron, brass, silver and copper. The quaint bits of color and the lovely forms of laid work and underglazing make a suppliant of an independent artist. Aside from their artistic value, many of the cardisticks are priceless as souvenirs of celebrated people. New York Advertiser.

SONG OF THE SHOE. Horses, mules, even goats and dogs. And sometimes sheep, and cats and pigs. And a host of other creatures. That neither salute nor provokes. That neither discern nor realize. And still wear the finest shoes.

These creatures have been so long in business for this shoe as to know just how to go about it. They buy it and they sell it too. And they are as satisfied with it as we are. And "Foot Form" shoes don't make men swear. Their trade increases day by day.

And your shoes are not as good as ours. They are not made as well. They are not made as strong. They are not made as comfortable. They are not made as long lasting. They are not made as cheap. They are not made as well as ours.

And your shoes are not as good as ours. They are not made as well. They are not made as strong. They are not made as comfortable. They are not made as long lasting. They are not made as cheap. They are not made as well as ours.

THE THEATERS.

The large attendance at "Geary's World's Museum" yesterday afternoon and last night presage a very successful week for that fast growing popular family resort.

The entertainment in the theater is beyond doubt the finest ever seen in this city for the price of admission. There is no cheap talent on the stage, each is an artist and receives the artist's salary.

Among the many is William Irwin, the head balancing trapeze performer who simply astounds the spectators by his wonderful feat in standing upon his head without the aid of his hands on a swinging trapeze bar and drinking and smoking while in that position.

The La Page children are small children, but their refined songs, dances and witticisms convinced the audience. Claude Bellport, a noted singer, has a voice in full range and power. Kent A. Hoolin, the eccentric Irish comediant, does not spring the old stunts that have grown moth-eaten, but delight the audience with things new and novel.

The renowned Lee, one of the most expert jugglers in the United States does some fancy moves before witnessing several simply makes his audience stare and wonder. Most of the specials appear on the vaudeville stage this season for the first time, having heretofore been attached to Barnum's and Forepaugh's circuses.

"A Shadow Detected" at Redmond's last night suited the taste of a majority of the ladies and gentlemen present. The comedy-drama is one of those far-fetched affairs which contains no parody, but is strong and depends solely upon the funniness of the comedian, Daniel Kelly, and the scenery for its attraction.

The case of trespass brought in the Circuit court by A. E. Gammage against Dr. Peterson for damage to Dr. Peterson's hospital, has been transferred to the jury calendar.

The annual meeting of the executive board of the Kent County Agricultural society will be held at the office of Secretary Cox in room 4, Forter block, on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 15.

Special meeting of Purity lodge this evening at Odd Fellows hall at 7 p. m. to arrange for the funeral of Sister Smith. Funeral Wednesday, 10 o'clock, S. M. at the Episcopal church, Turner street.

The St. Cecilia club decided at the meeting Saturday afternoon to give their annual reception and ball at the Morton House New Year's eve, and a committee will be appointed to arrange the details.
