I told him that I did not want to be in the same room with him and for further information he called upon Mr. Moran, the agent for the Fulton block.

"The next man to call was a policeman with a gold tooth. I don't know his name. He has a nasty mustache. He wanted a front room, but if he had to take an inside room he was willing. I told him that I would not have anything to do with him, and he took him to the block where the other men were.

HIS SUBORNATORS TRYING TO SUPPRESS THE EVIDENCE

Red Tape With Imaginary Dignity Impres the Commissioners, but It Does Not Impress the Jury With It in the Interest of the Superintendent.

Several weeks ago THE MONITOR published the statement of a lady who claimed to have been interviewed by Superintendent of Police Eastman.

The article was called to the attention of Mr. Eastman by one or more of the commissioners, and was denounced by him as an outrageous "fake." The commissioners were inclined to accept his statement as true, and one or two of them intimated to attaches of the paper their belief that it was wantonly attacking public officials without adequate grounds.

Simply, therefore, to show its good faith, the paper procured the attendance of the lady at a meeting of the board, and she there in the presence of Mr. Eastman made a statement which was in some ways stronger than those in which it had been printed.

Having thus demonstrated its good faith, and cleared itself from all charges of malice and untruthfulness, it left the matter there in the hands of the board. As the charge against Eastman was fully substantiated it was justified in believing that the members of the board would regard it as their duty to do something. They should utter a vigorous protest, or should vindicate the paper which published the charges and the lady who made them. It expected that Mr. Eastman would be discharged, compelled to pay for the article, or that the board would be rebuked by resolution. The board, however, seems to think that it is the paper, and not they who should act, and yesterday the editor received the following message:

Monday Press: Jan. 21, 1892.

GENTLEMEN—Commissioner Bender wishes me to say the board has no objection to getting the lady who was interviewed in the matter of charges preferred by Mrs. Rogers against Superintendent of Police Eastman. They are anxious to hear these witnesses and will be pleased if you can be in by noon tomorrow, respectively.

B. F. McKeown, Secy.

Accepting the challenge, the editor reported a reporter was detailed to investigate the matter. He found that while the commissioners were not particularly much hampered by red tape to anything, the superintendent has not been troubled in that way.

HOW NOT TO DO IT

Commissioner Bender Explains That It Is a Waste of Time to Delude the Public.

Commissioner Bender, as chairman of the committee on reports, was seen by a reporter of THE MONITOR PAPER yesterday afternoon and said that the only persuasion that had been used in getting matters before the board was a polite utterance to each asking them to call.

He said that the evidence so far introduced was unsubstantiated and the board did not feel as liberty to act on the charges against Superintendent of Police Eastman until standing on the evidence of one person.

"You know," he said, "that in a court of justice a person cannot be convicted on the evidence of one person, and that is why we feel as liberty to act on the charges set against him. If, when in a court of justice a person pleaded guilty to the charges set forth against him, it was necessary to produce more than one witness? He did not answer that question, and on being asked, it was not true that Superintendent Eastman was present when Mrs. Rogers gave her testimony and acknowledged that he did not recall.

"On being pressed further and asked why it was that after Mrs. Rogers had told her story to the board and told her story to Mr. Eastman, that she had not gone to the board and told her story to the board, he said that it was not a criminal tribunal and could not take a man to plead charges upon unsubstantiated facts.

"You know Mr. B., I said, "that the charges preferred against Mr. Eastman were not made by the board, but by the newspaper, and if the other witnesses are not introduced to the board and corroborate what Mrs. Rogers has said, Mr. Eastman will no doubt be acquitted."

"It matters not," he continued, "what the character of the woman is, if she were to say that she had been interviewed by Mrs. Rogers, she was certainly entitled to a respectful hearing."

"If Mrs. Rogers," Mr. Bender said, "had made a statement, it was not to be taken as evidence, but only as an opportunity to be given to her to state her story. It was not to be taken as evidence, but only as an opportunity to be given to her to state her story. It was not to be taken as evidence, but only as an opportunity to be given to her to state her story.

The reporter then visited Mrs. Rogers and learning from her that she was expecting a visit from Mrs. Miller waited, and while waiting Mrs. Rogers introduced some of the police officers who were plotting what was the police authorities to attempt to rob her of her good name and obtain evidence against her that would in some way mitigate the offense of her chief, but all the schemes were of no avail, as the stool

The Cold Weather at the West Good for Some Lines—Shut at the South—Decrease in the Number of Freight Trains.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Bradstreet's State of Trade tomorrow will say: Special telegrams point to few evidences of improvement in general trade. At the West, cold, and at times stormy weather, served to stimulate further demand for stocks of winter goods and some were cleared out. In some respects the nation's influence was not favorable, it serving to check trade notably at Baltimore, Cincinnati and Pittsburg. The inability of Southern planters to make their customary financial arrangements at this season with the usual facility is reported as a factor in the state of trade in several directions, although Galveston announces some improvement in business, notwithstanding the low price of cotton and slow collections. At Omaha, Chicago, St. Joe and Kansas City reports are of an improving demand, notably for boots and shoes and steel dry goods, with no marked showing as much interest as expected at this time.

The above facts have been disclosed simply to put the public in possession of the facts. It has been fully demonstrated that the police department proposed to be organized. It is a fact that the board of police and fire commissioners fully realize that the idea of Mr. Rogers' appointment as superintendent is a mistake, and that the board of police and fire commissioners will not support him. It is a fact that the board of police and fire commissioners will not support him.

The scene of the trouble is not in Moravia proper, but in the province of Cahul, just east of the great wall. One movement is attributed to a hand of choice, who took revenge for the stealing of his wife, and the other is ascribed to the secret society of revolutionaries.

Admiral Miller was seen at the Phoenix Furniture factory, where he is forming the cabinet makers, but declined positively to say anything. He even denied knowing Sergeant Webb, and he met Mr. Webb, but further he would not talk, and acted as if he had never heard of him. He was not intimidated by any one, so we may be sure he is not a traitor.

No News in Regard to the Message May Be Expected Monday—Short Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—No dispatches were received today, either by the state or navy departments in regard to the condition of affairs in Chile, and in fact there was not a word to be said in regard to that question, except possibly the plan of action decided upon by the president and his cabinet at their meeting this afternoon.

Some of the deputies are inclined to object, but Mac has the "clinch" and they will undoubtedly acquiesce.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The Associated Justice Joseph P. Bradley of the United States Supreme court, died at his residence in New Jersey, New York avenue, in this city, at 6:15 o'clock this morning.

Bradley was not expected, it being known for some past that the distinguished jurist was far from being a well man, an attack of the grip last spring having left him in a much debilitated condition. From an ailment of several months, he has been recovering since November, when he caught a slight cold, which, coupled with an enfeebled constitution, made a great increase in his strength, and during the greater part of the present term of the supreme court he was unable to be present at its daily session. It is only a few days ago that he was heard of in the cabinet, as he was talked out of the cabinet meeting, evidently suffering the most intense nervous prostration of those who witnessed the sight and remembered the contrast with the Blaine of two years ago.

It is of course impossible to say in this article, or in any judicial information of this subject, but it is generally understood that the cabinet practically decided to submit the matter to congress, and to let the people decide in regard to it. While such a course would be in itself indicate the termination of diplomatic negotiations for the settlement of the matter in dispute, it would give the public, through congress, an opportunity to express their views on the responsibility for the present unsettled state of affairs.
