

SAW THE CARCAN

WARNED BY A DEAD FACE

Special Apparition That is Seen by Trainmen on the Grand Rapids and Ontonagon Road.

WENFIELD, Kan., April 6.—"There will be a wreck on the road tonight, boys." This was the expression made by brakeman Robert Harland on the steps of the depot here last Thursday.

The crowd that gathered there during the evening, "I saw the dead face as I came in."

There is a superstition among the railroad men along the road that every wreck on this division is presaged by the appearance of a dead face as it goes along the road.

Several times during the past year and in every instance it has been followed by a wreck, until now it is looked upon by all trainmen as a warning sign to tell them of coming danger.

When it is seen it is impossible to get those who are passing from the road until they hear of a wreck.

In the instance just mentioned there was a crowd that gathered at the station of a coming wreck, and the men who were on the train were very solemn. They were not long in leaving, however, for as they were talking about the coming of a wreck, a freight train in which two men were badly injured.

When the news of the story showed that for over a year there has been a belief among the men on the road that a wreck was presaged by the full glare of the headlights. No body can be seen, and when discovered by a new train, the light is so bright that it is as if one is lying on the track with the body in the shadow. It is always in the night, and it is always at a crossing.

The man who was called to the stand, he said he had been a minister for over twenty years and had succeeded Rev. Adams in the past. He was called to the stand when he was in the presence of the church.

When he was asked to give evidence, he said that he had seen the dead face at the crossing of the Grand Rapids and Ontonagon roads, and that he had seen it at the crossing of the Grand Rapids and Ontonagon roads.

THE SOLD SOUTH LOST

THE SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS ALIENATED BY THE SILVER LEGISLATION.

A Southern Democrat Tells How the Alliance and Third Party South Will Defeat His Party—Thorough Organization of All the Southern States.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Democrats from the southern states, especially those from the far south, are a good deal concerned about the effect of the failure to pass the silver bill in the house.

"I am very much afraid," said Congressman Henderson of North Carolina, talking on the subject, "that it will cost us a loss of North Carolina and probably several other states in the south."

"Why do you think so, Mr. Henderson?"

"Because a large proportion of our people, especially those of the large districts, are members of the alliance and they vote solidly for alliance measures and men. They are trained to vote as their leaders dictate, no matter whether it is on Treasury or silver or any other proposition which the leaders bring to them and advise them to vote for. They have made up their minds that they want free silver and if they see a Democratic house, especially one which is so divided as this, they will pass a free coinage bill; it will be hard to get them to vote for Democratic measures."

"What proportion of the alliance will be taken from the Republican party?"

"The election of Republican electors. Our Democratic majority in North Carolina is largely Democratic as this relation to the Alliance should take fifty or twenty thousand votes away from us, or give us an equal number of votes. The result would be that the Republicans would carry the state."

"I think the same condition exists in every state south of Virginia and Kentucky. In Tennessee, both of the Carolinas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana, the alliance is very strong and thoroughly organized. Everywhere in fact, that Simpson and the other very many speakers who have great strength among the voters and through organizations."

"Up to 11 o'clock forty towns were brown, and at 12 o'clock they were red." In the city the Democrats barely got a majority, and in the country they lost all their foreign born citizens against the Irish. The Democrats failed to get a majority in either city or county.

"The Democrats failed to get a majority in either city or county. The Democrats failed to get a majority in either city or county. The Democrats failed to get a majority in either city or county."

OIL EXPLOSION.

The St. Paul White Lead and Oil Company's Plant Explodes.

ST. PAUL, April 6.—At 10:30 this morning an explosion occurred in the basement of the St. Paul White Lead and Oil company's building, located on the levee in West St. Paul.

The building was soon in flames and in an hour was a total loss, the walls having fallen in. The stock was valued at $80,000, the building at $100,000 and the insurance on the whole was only $40,000.

NAVIGATION OPEN.

The Straits of Mackinac are Clear of Ice and the Bay Open at Buffalo—Boats Chartered.

MACKINAC CITY, April 6.—The straits are now perfectly clear of ice in every direction. All the float ice has been washed away by the stiff gale of the past two days. Navigation is open to both lakes.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6.—No ice in Buffalo on Buffalo except on the north shore and that not extending half way across the lake.

SPRING LAKE, April 6.—For the first time in many years Spring Lake had straight tickets between Democrats and Republicans at the spring election.

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—Since April 1 the Southern Express company has discharged about ninety express messengers for being members of the Messenger Brotherhood.

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—The Brotherhood men in northern Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi are all in the city.

NEW ORLEANS EXCITED

THE DEMOCRATS ARE URGY AND ARE DENYING EACH OTHER.

The McEnerys Claim That Their Name Was Counted Out by Frank and Threatened to Withdraw from the Contest.

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—This city has been a state of the wildest political excitement all day over the action of the committee of seven at the Democrat recording board in counting out McEnery as the primary candidate, and counting in Foster, the anti-slavery candidate.

The storm of indignation raised by their action has not been exceeded since 1876, and will have a most injurious effect on the Democratic party of the state.

OTHER STATES AND MEN.

The elections throughout Wisconsin indicate a strong possibility that the Democrats can carry the state next fall. The vote of Milwaukee is most assuring in that direction. The immense Democratic majority in Hartford is also strong assurance that Connecticut will give the Democrats its electoral vote.

On the other hand the election in Chicago shows a great Democratic loss and puts Illinois out of the doubtful list. This is discouraging to Palmer's friends and the more they are discouraged the better it will be.

He is a firmer enemy of free silver and all its allies, than Cleveland. The latter has never faltered nor wavered in his course of energy and free silver. He is a New York man and breathes the politics of New York aristocratic circles. There is consistency and some excuse for his course but it is not so with Palmer. The latter is a Western man with Eastern principles while Cleveland is an Eastern man true to the creditor class who dominate the East.

At the time Palmer was wanting an Almy vote for senator he was singing very low and sweet for free silver. If he over the farmers of Illinois get at John M. Palmer again they will give him the one lesson he yet needs and that will last him the rest of his political life.

RHODE ISLAND YESTERDAY: The result of the vote in Rhode Island will be watched for with unusual interest because of the influence it will bear on the presidential election. The campaign has been participated in by the greatest men in both parties. Mr. Cleveland appeared upon the stump to arouse the Democrats and he did so very effectively. He was ably seconded by such eloquent orators as Governor Campbell of Ohio. The Republicans had Governor McKinley and others equally strong and the little state was being worked for all that it could do.

It is noticeable in passing this eventful campaign that Governor Hill was not invited to take a part. Rhode Island Democrats are for Mr. Cleveland and Hill left alone by the Republicans. He was the unusual course of the ex-president in attempting campaign speech making. If Rhode Island gave assurance yesterday at the polls that her electoral vote would be given the Democrats, it will be a great victory for Cleveland as well as the Democracy, it will almost make the nomination of the ex-president a certainty. If the Republicans hold the electoral vote the chances for a re-election will be lessened.

GOVERNOR ABBOTT of New Jersey has won the acclamations that that was passed in the legislature by bribery. To permit the Reading railroad to combine with the New Jersey Central and Delaware & Lackawanna, to control the actual market and to give the New Jersey Central does not get at the real behavior. Governor Abbott will favor the revocation of its charter. That's the staff. Governor Abbott is thus showing himself a servant of the people by such base and noble conduct. He breaks down this cruel and infernal combination he will gain for himself a name that may make the echoes of the white house.

The weather is about as uncertain and cyclonic as the elections. In Kansas City the people shut up shops and retired to the cellars after the storm passed and another was feared. This is supposed to be the way some of the candidates dispose of themselves after the returns come in.

JOHN M. PALMER and Wm. M. Springer, both reside at Springfield, Illinois, but this spring for the second time in passing have it voted. Republican Springer's free will and Palmer's solid basis are not appreciated at the Capitol city of the Empire state of the Central groups.

MR. STUART should not overlook the claims of the Leader when he comes to passing his official pen. A respectable name is sometimes just as attached to an office by malignant lies from an enemy as by the truth from a friend.

If the other elections throughout Michigan had no more party significance than the election in Grand Rapids the Republicans had better keep tight on savings and if nothing had happened to justify a play sell.

The Republicans are looking around for the most worthy man in their ward upon whom to place the honor of a delegate at large to the national convention.

KITCHEN TRAINING.

A WORK WHICH HAS HELPED MANY POOR AND RICH FAMILIES.

What "Kitchen Garden Training" Means. How It Was Started and by Whom. Miss Huntington's Great Work for Her Less Fortunate Sisters in a Big City. There is so much to find fault with and so much to wish for in such a great big, dirty city as ours that sometimes the good, sweet, modest facts connected with our charitable institutions are overlooked. "Kitchen Garden Training" is a school, said a visitor to the Wilson industrial school and mission as she came away from there the other day. The building at 125 St. Mark's place was turned, nearly forty years ago, from a factory into the pleasant school house which it now is. This school, which was the first institution of the kind in America, is not endowed and is maintained entirely by voluntary contribution. Mrs. Jonathan Sturges is the first director, and many familiar names are on the list of managers.

The mission house her home, and here she watches day by day the results of the methods which she has established. It is with a fascinating interest that one listens to the tale of how by the moose's chance Miss Huntington, at eighteen, just out of school and ready to be ushered into fashion's pleasures, chanced to be taken by a friend to visit a "ragged school," and how the only daughter of fabled parents put society and the usual amusements of youth aside, and not in the usual manner, but with the same motive as her cousin, Father Huntington, set herself about mission school work.

Nobody could work with Miss Huntington's energy and her capacity for organizing without developing new ideas which should bring forth more complete plans, so as to time passed and the great experience, not only among the poor, but with her own class, she made various discoveries. One was that the leisure of some of the young girls of her acquaintance might readily be put to good account, and another that kitchen gardening might with profit be adapted to the rich as well as the poor.

She obtained the co-operation of some of the mothers and the fathers of the girls, so that a meeting was called for the purpose of developing a plan of movement. Fifty girls met at the house of one of the older women. "This was in 1867. It was proved that most of them, no matter how well versed they were in Latin and Greek, knew nothing of anything about domestic science, so arrangements were made for forming a normal class which should be divided into companies, these companies to be the mission for regular days of teaching.

These young women, as their paths divided, removed to Boston, Chicago and elsewhere and set up kitchen gardens of their own, with the result that the system spread everywhere. It might even be said with truth that the other thought, that of the Working Girls' clubs, grew from this mission. Miss Grace H. Dodge was one of the fifty young women who joined in the work there, and it was not doubt because of the experience she gained at this time her idea was conceived and developed.

The girls became kitchen gardeners themselves, and afterward, when money had placed some of them in homes of their own, they wrote to the founder of the system, "I have no idea how kitchen garden helps me with my servants and my housekeeping," and to others then it gave the means of livelihood when unforeseen reverses of fortune made them dependent upon their own resources.

It may be confessed that "kitchen garden" is a rather misleading name, for it suggests to many a place where vegetables are grown for kitchen use. When Miss Huntington was asked about the name, she said: "It means a system by which all the intricacies of domestic science are taught by cooking, dusting, washing, ironing, waiting at table, etc. I thought a little of changing the name to 'household science' because it was with the term 'vegetable garden' that I found nothing that quite took its place, and I soon discovered that the fact that the name had been explained gave it additional importance." The school hours were the same here as elsewhere—from 9 to 12. There are about 200 girls, ranging in age from five to ten, and there are the usual lessons in reading, writing and arithmetic, which come after the lesson in domestic training in the kitchen garden branches is little else than a systematized form of play, which takes up a proportionate part of the school day.—New York Tribune.

Nickel Armored Ships Can't Go North. The remarkable discovery of the effect of temperature on the density of nickel steel is likely to have an important bearing on its use in the construction of war vessels. After this variety of steel has been frozen it is readily magnetized, and, moreover, its density is permanently reduced to 10 per cent by the exposure to the cold. It is stated that a ship of war built in the temperate climate of ordinary steel and clad with six 3,000 tons of nickel steel armor would be destroyed by a visit to the arctic regions, owing to the contraction of the steel by the extreme low temperature.—New York Journal.

Women's Ways. Women have their own way of keeping their consciences clear and their heads above water in matrimonial life. One woman when she encounters a disagreeable person goes off into a corner and counts off on her fingers the agreeable people she knows. This does not in effect, but literally she might tell her beads, and she keeps on doing it until the image of the disagreeable one is effaced.

Another woman in the presence of an unusually annoying circumstance was desirous to unhook and unbutton her gown. The rehooking miscarried several times by her own impatience. She was asked why she did not unhook it. Her answer was that hooks and eyes were the most disagreeable things ever invented. One always began to hook them at the middle, and the worst time in were ten to one that you linked the wrong pair. But this you did not know until you were half through and one came out ahead. So, with that, and the strain upon your fingers, you were naturally exasperated, and as they were very hooks and eyes that made you angry and ill for the rest of the day, not because they frustrated the efficacy of this method, but simply because they didn't at the middle, and the worst time in the time of a race. Also, both being scientific minded the one knew that in thought as in physics two beings cannot repel the same space at the same time, and so tried out one thought with another while the other, by simply transmitting the same space to the moon, opened to hooks and eyes, and the relief of its expenditure without sin. -New York Evening Sun.

Such a Romantic Affair. She was a convalescent from la grippe, and her doctor had prescribed for her an easy chair she played with the ropes in her lap, which had been brought her by the doctor, and she was unable to receive, and smiled over some stories, was telling her of a summer at well, we'll only say at a certain fashionable watering place on Narragansett Bay. "One of the beauties whom I used to see at the casino," said he, "was a young beauty about twenty-three or four. I should think she was about thirty, but she was about thirty, and it was great fun watching them. There was such a good story here, but I was too busy with my engagement. He called at her home one evening and offered his heart, and fortune in correct style. Pretty much like this, 'Mamma, I am mamma, and coyly tripped up stairs to mamma, who told her that every girl who married a doctor should have a good chance to see that, and of course she was to accept him.

"Down she went, picturing the ardent lover awaiting her return with anxious, throbbing lips, and his long arms. Now after one month's treatment, the roaring and rumbling in my ears has all cleared up. I can hear about as well as ever old. My lungs are strong and my stomach is strong. Of course, under the circumstances, I would be base ingratitude if I did not do all I could for the doctor who has cured me, and I am more than willing to verify this statement to any who will pay me.

My trouble was brought on by catarrh, and it had invaded not only my nose and throat, but my lungs also. Now after one month's treatment, the roaring and rumbling in my ears has all cleared up. I can hear about as well as ever old. My lungs are strong and my stomach is strong. Of course, under the circumstances, I would be base ingratitude if I did not do all I could for the doctor who has cured me, and I am more than willing to verify this statement to any who will pay me.

THE MONTEGUE TREATMENT BEGS leave to add that Mrs. Amy Spring, a lady well known and highly respected in the neighboring town of Ames, Iowa. She says: "I took to the all-out Montague treatment to see about my throat and lungs. My cough was incessant and kept me feeling miserable and weak all the time. The phlegm would flow from the back of my nose into my throat and keep me constantly cleaning and coughing. Any little exposure would give me a cold, and it would always result in my throat. Now after two months treatment I feel a very radical change. There is no dropping from my head to my throat and I never have to blow my nose."
