

ALL IS QUIET TODAY

The Strikers in Peaceable Possession.

Cool Headed Council Presided at Homestead All Day Yesterday.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 7.—The strikers have their own way today. The body of the town is surrounded by the mill and challenge the approach of every man who ventures too close to an imaginary "death line," a hundred yards from the mill fences. Three hundred men are distributed all over the town and carefully are these lookouts deployed that not a soul can enter or leave the town without giving an account of himself.

Within the mills, whose contents are not to be replaced, and are valued at over $3,000,000, are in only half a dozen men who are the only of the owners, but who make no resistance to the will of the strikers. The water-gate men of the strikers have not interfered with them in the performance of their duty. No one is permitted to enter the mill, and the leading workers in the strike say no damage will be done to the contents unless the strikers are further provoked, and then the leaders will not be responsible for the outcome.

The executive committee of the strikers, who are very well organized, is in session almost all the time. The movement of the various subcommittees is a quiet that is forbidding reprisals against the town, and the only movement is in the direction of the homes where the bodies of the strikers are being buried. The funeral of these men occurred this afternoon.

At the river front a couple of hundred men are watching the approaches from Pittsburgh and sending messages to headquarters. The committee in Pittsburgh are keeping the leaders informed of the outlook there by means of a telephone. Pickets are watching the river and railways and suspicious persons are subject to confinement.

Another detail of strikers is gathered around a big hall in the center of the town, from which a bell will sound an alarm upon the approach of an armed force. The pits are in good condition for active work. They are located on a hillside, and are about twenty feet from the edge and command a sweeping view of the river for a mile or more.

The officers of the county are more than helpless and apparently do not intend to do anything. The strikers refuse to order troops last night in the face of the freer appeals of the Carnegie and the Murray. The latter left the town of Homestead in the hands of the strikers, who realize and intend to retain their position, although they will not attempt force against others than their common enemies, the Pinkerton men.

Not a saloon is open in Homestead today, and there is no drinking. The latter and the saloons are closed by the counsel of the strikers themselves.

CONGRESS WILL ACT

The Pinkertons Must Be Wiped Out.

Both Houses Will Pass a Bill and Harrison Will Sign It.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Pinkertons must go. Among the members of congress there exists a difference of opinion as to the merits of the Carnegie strike. But upon the question of the Pinkertons staying or going there is no difference.

The opinion is, so far as a careful and practical consideration of the case is concerned, that the Pinkertons must go. There is no qualifying statement added to the declaration: there is no quibbling or hesitancy in expressing an opinion. The Pinkertons are a menace to the peace and order of the country. They are a law unto themselves. They are a threat to the lives and property of the people.

There is no denying the fact that the Pinkerton system is a menace to the peace and order of the country. They are a law unto themselves. They are a threat to the lives and property of the people. The time is ripe to wipe the Pinkerton system out of existence, and it is hoped that the bill will be passed before the adjournment of congress.

ANOTHER STEEPLECHASE.

TROTTERS GO HOME

End of the Comstock Park Races.

A Small and Unenthusiastic Crowd Witness the Two Last Events.

The summer meeting of the Horseman's Association closed yesterday, not with the blare of trumpets and waving of hats, but with a funeral-like silence that was oppressive to a degree.

Between the hosts the celebrated horses, Direct and Monbars, gave an exhibition trot, during the last quarter in 35 flat. The appearance of the horses provoked a small amount of enthusiasm.

The third heat was rather a surprise for those who backed Glaucus, as he reached the post in the first place. Glaucus had secured the pole, but was caught at the quarter pole by King Princeps, who raced him until the last mile and a half.

The final heat was a walk away for the King as Robert King Glaucus was at the half the first and second.

FRIDAY, JULY 8 1910

LABOR AND CAPITAL. The workmen of this country are determined to have the right to organize in their own interest and for their own advancement without incurring the proscription of equity of capital.

They will fight for this right if necessary, but it is not necessary, the ballot will do more in this free country than can the ballot.

The bloody battle at Homestead should serve to unite workmen stronger than ever. They should become as one man for the banishment of their enemies from public places and the institution in power of their friends. No party, name or prejudice should prevent this.

The resolution in this regard should be taken now, next year may be too late. The power to govern this country rests in the hands and hearts of labor. Well organized, intelligent labor is a better reliance for the nation than millionaires who can chain under a people's government that they have to find their pleasure resulting in the castles of foreign countries, where they expend the million, earned for them by American labor, in trying to be lordly aristocrats, to which they were not born, and who in trying to be such, show themselves contemptible upon the people.

The better American labor is organized the more intelligent it will be and the more it will be the foundation upon which rests our free institutions and our highest hopes for the future.

The power of labor, when united and determined, cannot be withstood by united capital. Money has strength and money talks, but money can only strike with the arms of mercenaries and can only talk with the sly tongue of bribery. Physical power prevails in labor alone, and physical power prevails in the final argument.

Happy is that country where labor is king and where labor's kindly power is exercised justly and nobly. The elevation of labor in this country elevates the nation, and the capitalists who deny to labor the natural resources for their own elevation are traitors to the best interests of the republic.

Let labor be fully informed of its power and impressed with its responsibility and the result will surely be beneficial to all.

FOURTH WARD PLATFORM. Mark well these propositions from the People's party: Presidents and senators shall be elected by a direct vote of the people. Free trade in paper labor shall be supported by a party that will protect the nation against dangerous immigration.

Presidents to be ineligible for a second term. No banks of issue. A larger volume of money to be issued by the government, of silver, gold and paper.

Railroads and telegraphs controlled by the government. Capitalists' monstrosities beget in fraud, nourished through robbery of the people and perpetuated as immortals through corporations, made impossible.

The land for the landless. The burdens of government to be put upon property. Shorter hours of labor. No armed Pinkerton mercenaries. A free ballot and a fair count, but no force bill.

Will some one of these old party organs please rise and point out which one of these propositions are "idiotic" and worthy only of emanation from "fanatics"?

This battle at Homestead should end the war for the whole United States. The Pinkertons should be disbanded and disbanded. The right of labor to form unions should be conceded. Boards of arbitration should be provided, clothed with power to adjust disputes between capital and labor. Bloodshed and violence over these matters must cease they are a shame to our country.

This killing at Homestead is murder. Who is responsible? This now becomes a great question, and it is of national importance. Men of all classes are interested in the decision. If the Pinkertons were lawfully employed by the Carnegies the men must be held for murder; if they were not lawfully employed the Pinkertons are murderers and the Carnegies their accessories.

It is greatly to the honor of the locked-out mill men at Homestead that they were careful of the property of the Carnegies and preserved it with scrupulous honesty.

This would be a good time for the Democrats in the House of Representatives to get over their qualms over constitutional powers and go ahead with the bill that forbids in all this nation such an armed force as the Pinkertons sent to Homestead for the money paid them by the Carnegies.

The old party organs, that are loud and senseless in denouncing the people's party platform as socialistic, visionary and idiotic, should hold their breath a minute and get down from their high tower to a plain, fair specification of what it is in the platform that is so very foolish.

HUGH O'DONNELL was a much lighter hero of the battle at Homestead as Sheridan was at Cedar Creek. Ireland is never dishonored in a fight, where high courage, lofty patriotism and brilliant gestures are demanded.

WHERE men deliberately take their lives in their hands in defence of what they conceive to be their rights they must be credited with an extraordinary reputation as philanthropists; by being just if not generous to the men who have made his great fortune. For, as Mr. Clarkson observes, "the workmen must be right in their contentions. There has been no such convulsion in business as could possibly make necessary these great reductions in wages."

Mr. Clarkson may not be so well versed in economics and the iron trade as Mr. Carnegie, but at least he is a more consistent protectionist than the multimillionaire. Mr. Carnegie professes the tariff doctrine as the salvation of high wages for American workmen, but refuses to give the protection to the men with his workmen. Mr. Clarkson, who possibly still believes what Mr. Carnegie professes, wants the protected manufacturers to do the square thing by the protected workman and so vindicate the protectionist propensities. If Mr. Clarkson were a thoughtful beneficiary of the tariff he might think otherwise.

There are men in Homestead today who believe as Mr. Clarkson believes, and are shielding their blood and the blood of others in the name of their belief. The sad story is told in our new column. Rather, the beginning of the story. The end will be told before November. Meantime every bullet that is fired and every drop of blood that is shed will help to try the wisdom of Mr. Clarkson's advice to Mr. Carnegie.

People's Party Conventions. A county convention of the People's party of the county of Kent will be held in Wood Temple hall, Middlesex block, corner South Division and Island streets, Thursday, July 14, 1892 at 8 p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the remaining convention at Jackson.

DEATH NOTICES.

CHURMAN—Mrs. Charlotte E. ...

Wind and Weather. WASHINGTON, July 8.—For Lower Michigan: Fair Friday; showers Saturday; variable winds.

CITY AND SUBURBS.

Miller's hosts at the lake don't leak. Republican ward caucus Tuesday.

Mrs. J. L. Strellsky and children are spending the heated term visiting friends in New York.

George Horachberg, of Baller, is in the city on business and declares the racing races the best he has ever seen.

Many furniture buyers are arriving for the meeting next week and between them and the races the hotels are crowded.

W. D. Ingersoll at age time an inmate of the Soldiers' home at the county jail having been locked up last night for safe keeping.

Governor Winans has directed Lieutenant-Colonel McGarrin to assume command of the state troops until Colonel Irish's successor has been elected.

Aniole Sibilla has filed a bill of complaint in the Circuit court in which she asks for a divorce from Jacob Sibilla.

The national bank of Auburn, N. Y., has commenced assumpt proceedings in the Circuit court against William C. Dunlop to recover $1750 claimed to be due on six promissory notes.

Superintendent Chalmers expects that a delegation of at least thirty teachers will leave Saturday for Saratoga to attend the annual convention of the National Educational association.

Anna Gibson and Rose Johnson, the woman thieves convicted recently in the Superior court and sentenced to the Detroit house of correction, will be introduced to Capt. Nicholson today.

George M. Smith has commenced suit in the Circuit court to recover on a promissory note for $1750, given by John M. Richens, Feb. 22, 1892, due in four months and endorsed by the defendant.

The police yesterday notified the county superintendent of the poor that Theresa Richter was injured in a fight at St. Peter's hall on the evening of July 4 was still at St. Mark's hospital and in destitute circumstances.

The man who sailed under a dozen names, but who is believed to be Pat Corrigan and placed under arrest Wednesday by Detective Smith for carrying a ladies pocket at the lake, was released yesterday. The lady refused to make a complaint.

James Cook, the alleged leader of the gang of pickpockets now doing the town, arrested at the Kent Hotel Wednesday in the act of picking a traveling man's pocket was discharged yesterday morning, owing to the inability of the officers to find the traveling man.

"Frisco" Ned escaped from jail this morning after serving thirty days for being drunk. The sparkling juice looked so tempting that he indulged once for luck, only for company sake and once he kept the company company.

An officer happened along and returned him to jail.

Ten specimens of the genus tramp known as Daniel Sullivan, Grant Johnson, Geo. H. Hester, Charles Penhall, Geo. W. M. Eisenhart, Charles Penhall, Geo. Baxter, James McDonough, Chas. McLeod and Kelly Key were captured yesterday at the old camping grounds and are held for police court today.

The St. Agnes Guild of St. John's Episcopal Mission will give an amuseing and novel social and entertainment at their 602 South Division street, opposite Eleventh avenue next Tuesday evening. Judging from previous entertainments the one in question cannot but be the best patronized as the young ladies have and are exerting themselves for that purpose.

The public is invited to attend a meeting of the Highland Park W. C. T. U. this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Baptist Chapel on North College avenue. Interesting addresses will be made by Mrs. Lucretia Millard Treat and others on the subject of "The Children in Kindergarten" and "The Care of Children in the Home." A kindergarten is to be opened in the chapel next week.

Front street to abate nuisance at 176 Oakley street; on Grand Rapids National bank to abate nuisance in lot corner of Alabaster and Second street; on Jas Lambria to abate nuisance at 314 Straight street; on Nicholas to abate nuisance at 47 and 51 Straight street.

THE THEATERS.

A large audience was in attendance last night at the testimonial benefit tendered Manager Harry Wood at Smith's opera house. There were twenty numbers and if the encorers were all responded to it would have taken a week to finish the performance.

The glove contest between Will Dixon, the mullatto and Augustus Coreano an Italian, proved highly exciting as the mullatto became angry and after knocking the Italian down jumped on him and thereby lost the fight as a foul was called. Wrestling bout between Malarney and Fallon also proved an exciting feature as both were expert wrestlers and although Fallon was as quick as a cat, other entertainment will be given Saturday night and the house will put in a night.

An attraction, to be successful, must please the people—not only those who go to the theatre to laugh at anything and everything, but those who never laugh, or, at least, who laugh "inwardly." To this latter class of theatre goers "Oh! What a Night," now at Redmond's proves highly entertaining, as they cannot help but be "inwardly convulsed" at the bright, keen wit, comic intonation and brilliant satire, while the more demonstrative patrons are literally "brizing down the house" with their uncontrollable and unrestrained appreciation. A matinee will be given tomorrow afternoon.

Lace Curtains, Chenille Draperies and Window Shades at prices to close out our stock.

Don't forget the great steppichease and hurdle race at the Kent Association ground tomorrow afternoon.
