

TWO HUNDRED KILLED

A Terrible Calamity in Europe.

St. Gervais, the Famous Health Resort, Swept Away by Floods.

PARIS, July 12.—A terrific storm swept over the Chamounix valley last night. The rain fell in torrents, causing the river Arve to rise suddenly to a great height. The swelling of the mountain stream led to the foundation of the country along the banks and great damage was done in many places. The worst disaster was at St. Gervais, the famous health resort. The village was destroyed and at least half the buildings in the place demolished. The Arve is full of floating debris, including a mill, which are being carried down the river. It is reported that 200 residents and visitors were drowned. The celebrated baths were destroyed and at least half the buildings in the place demolished. The Chamounix valley is the most celebrated in the Alps for its picturesque scenery and mild climate. The southern boundary is the famous Mont Blanc, from which and from the opposite mountains hardly less than 100 glaciers descend into the valley. The valley is about twelve miles long and from one to six miles wide. Another account said the flood caused by the rain by which St. Gervais was overwhelmed.

Humors That He Is Sick Under Death at 71, Kansas, Idaho.

Twenty-five Men Have Been Killed and a Mill Was Blown Down.

S. TROOPS FOR IDAHO

The Labor War Rages There Violently

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The president has ordered that federal troops be sent to the scene of the labor trouble in Idaho. General Schofield has posted the order to General Rorer and Meritt. WALLACE, Idaho, July 12.—The battles between the union and non-union camps recently reported in this city of some twenty-five or more persons. The union men carried the day and the non-union men will be shipped out of the place. Another battle occurred at the "Frisco" mill later and 20 non-union men are reported to have been killed there. The mill was blown up with black powder and the loss is about $125,000. The governor has telegraphed to the troops to stay in the afternoon and the men of the Gen. mine, fifty of whom were killed with rifles, marched down to Wallace. The strike is being led by the miners, consisting of about 110 non-union men, all under arms, and further trouble is feared.

UNION MARTIAL LAW

Homestead in Possession of the Soldiers.

The Strikers Are Overawed and on Their Good Behavior.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 12.—A few minutes past 9 o'clock the militia came by in full force from above town and at once surrounded the Carnegie mills. They were received with a few cheers from the surrounding bystanders, and the most respectful consideration was accorded to their respectful requests. The first detachment of troops was at least 3,000 men, comprising the second and third brigades. The troops came from the point of rendezvous, two miles to the west of Greensburg, and it is stated that the strikers were ordered to get out of the town. Immediately on the arrival of the trains the troops formed in a column just beyond Muncy station. One company was at once detached to act as pickets and a line immediately thrown out to the mill yards. Then the main body of troops marched down the streets and along what is known as "Scab Hill." A carefully prepared reception was made by the strikers and the militia, and it was manifest that the strikers in command did not desire to be made the objects of a ceremonial reception from the people and strikers. The militia was ordered to suppress. In twenty minutes the troops were entirely surrounded and the Carnegie mills were once more in the hands of their owners. All the surrounding streets were lined with militia. The militia every street intersection to keep the crowd at a respectful distance and prevent the assembling of groups of strikers. It is due to the workmen, however, to say that no militiaman has been ordered to exercise violence. The strikers are uniformly good natured and the peaceful programme of their demands is being carried out. Immediately after the deployment of strikers and establishing of pickets, the militia proceeded to the center of Homestead. One company had taken the strikers' headquarters, another marched to the center of the town, and a third occupied a slight eminence overlooking and commanding the Carnegie mills. Homestead is in the hands of the militia and martial law has succeeded to the arbitrary rule of the strikers' committee.

A Red Hot Republican Convention.

Charges of Bribery Against the Piegree Men in Allegan County.

ALLEGAN, Mich., July 12.—The extraordinary session of the Piegree boom all over the state received a fine illustration in this county today. At the caucus held in this city the Piegree men were almost uniformly successful. In some of them there were some elements and the result was a whole lot a very bitter feeling behind. The county convention was held today, and as the delegates gathered the air was thick with Piegree talk. Just before it convened, however, Editor Reid of the Gazette, a leading Piegree supporter, dropped a bomb into the midst of the delegates which has probably given the delegation to Rich. The bomb was in the form of the following extract from the Gazette: "It has often been charged that the Republican caucus in Allegan was corruptly controlled and packed by unscrupulous men who secured the endorsement of voters by paying them money or by other dishonest means. It has been charged that on one occasion, but never more so than on last Saturday, July 9. It has been charged that the Piegree men were to prove bribery or other dishonest doings in politics, but here is proof that the Piegree men were not so at this occasion. Read these affidavits."

WHAT THEY DID AT THEIR MEETING.

A Drive in the Afternoon and a Ride on the Lake Last Evening.

THE AFTERNOON MEETING.

The initial session of the first national meeting of retail furniture dealers of the United States commenced yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the local Street Armory, for the purpose of organizing a national association. There were present about 250, including representatives of furniture trade papers and several manufacturers. The assemblage had in the main the appearance of a druggists' convention, and many present, no doubt, had affiliated with that festive creature to such an extent that they became fascinated with the temporary chairman, John Widdicombe, president of the local Manufacturers' association, called the meeting to order and invited J. Chauvin, of Butte, Mont., to assume the temporary chairmanship. On receiving the grave the temporary chairman, in lieu of an address, introduced Mayor Stuart, who welcomed the guests in the following concise language: "It becomes my pleasant privilege, in the name of the people, and especially on behalf of our business trade and industry on behalf of that large and influential class connected with the furniture industry, to bid you a hearty welcome to our city and for our city to be permitted to entertain you. I am sure that a distinguished gathering as this, cultivated and influential men from all parts of the country is indeed a distinguished honor." After the host welcome the mayor delivered the address, touching upon the early history of furniture, delving into the debris of past ages and bringing to light the styles and patterns of the early days, and contrasting them with the styles of today. The conclusion he said: "It is suggested by our distinguished visitors that night with propriety and to the advantage of the city, that your attention at this meeting be given to the most serious problems affecting the furniture industry, representing, in my opinion, the most important of the day, but throughout the country, in this city, the exorbitant cost of only the furniture, the high cost of the material, the unequal classification of furniture, the railway associations. Local effort is being made to secure the transportation of the freight or traffic associations and schemes or to secure a uniform classification of furniture, in place of the interstate commerce act."

A CASHIER'S SHORTAGE

George W. Cook Is An Embellisher.

He Gambled and Played the Races With His Employer's Money.

George W. Cook, a duds appearing man about 30 years of age, is the guest of Sheriff McQueen, awaiting an examination on a charge of embezzling $1,000 from the Phoenix Furniture company. Cook received the work was employed by the company as cashier, and boarded at 107 Trowbridge street. His salary was a comfortable one but, according to his own story, his love for a swift life led him to make a criminal of himself. Monday morning it was found that his cash account was short and a capias was sworn out for his arrest. When confronted by his employers he acknowledged his guilt and said he had spent the money at the gambling tables located in the city and in betting on the races. The capias was placed in the hands of the sheriff, who escorted him to the same room occupied by defaulter West and other criminals who have held high positions in the social world, and every attempt was made to keep him from the public, but the attempt was a failure. The company, after a more careful examination of their books, found that Cook had embezzled $1,000. He was first supposed, and seeing no way of getting even with Cook financially, the company decided to sue him for embezzlement. Sheriff McQueen handed Cook over to the police, and Judge Hagarty on July 11th in default of bail committed him until July 22nd for an examination. Cook has been a resident of this country about eighteen months, and up to six months ago was employed at the Phoenix Furniture company, but lost at the gaming tables. He admits playing the races with stolen money in the amount of $1,000, but lost $800. Cook has a father and mother and three young brothers in his native city. His father is a milk dealer and his brothers are factory hands. When Cook was arrested he had a 38-caliber revolver which he said he carried for his personal protection, $75 in money, a watch, a chain and a diamond shirt stud.

"There is no secret as to our process. We will make use of the old formula well known to all distillers. We claim that a better product can be obtained from molasses than from corn.

It was on the third day after leaving Carlisle that Cooper arrived at Rydal Mount. He was very anxious to see Wordsworth and have a talk with him.

"It is expected by the capitalists who control this new corporation that within the space of a few years it will be one of the most important industries in the Atlantic coast, but that it will be of consequence in many industries because it will be sure to cheapen the price of alcohol.

There was but one occasion, says Cooper, when I discerned the feeling of a man who was not contented with his lot. It was when he was talking about the "youngster of old man" who was and being with deep and heartfelt homage.

"Some of the manufacturers of alcohol from corn and grain have been much afraid that their business will be displaced by the Cuban sugar trade and the great competition to produce spirits which is now being waged with the reciprocity clause.

Wordsworth's opinion on Tennyson is interesting. Cooper asked the poet what his opinion was of the poet's new submission. "There is little that can be called high poetry," Wordsworth said.
