Abstract:	This is a devised collection that brings together a variety of directories that include listings for Grand Rapids, Michigan area citizens, businesses and organizations. The directories often include addresses and telephone numbers and sometimes occupations (for individuals) or members (for businesses and organizations). The oldest directory currently documented for the collection is Williams Grand Rapids Directory, City Guide and Reference, 1859/1860. Some of the directories, such as the Polk directories, are housed in the public service area.

Scope and Contents

This collection contains reference books or lists that record personal or corporate names and may also provide address and phone number information. It includes directories from Grand Rapids, Kent County and the Greater Grand Rapids area. For Michigan directories in general, or for directories from other Michigan cities included in the holdings of the Archives, see Coll. 281.

Conditions Governing Use

Several of the volumes are in poor condition and additional preservation microfilm will be sought when possible. Due to this poor condition, heavy use and great importance of these sources, photocopying is only available for those items which already have microfilm, or with staff permission, where the physical condition of the item permits.

Related Materials

Related Materials

Directories can be found in other archival collections, particularly as related to organizations. These are too numerous to repeat here though some areas of research are suggested.

Church Directories may be found in Collection 096, Western Michigan Genealogical Society church records; Collection 270, Gathered at the River and Collection 347, Grand Rapids Public Library church references collection.

Business Directories may also be found in Collection 046, Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce.

Directories for clubs and organizations can be found in individual collections or in Collection 216, Grand Rapids Public Library Ephemera collection.

Subseries B. R.L. Polk City & County Directories.

General

Select early years of the Polk directories include County information, as noted below. Other years contain only Grand Rapids city information. In the 1960's there were two sets, one for Grand Rapids, and one for the Suburban area of Grand Rapids. More recently, the directly has become a two volume County-wide directly.

Grand Rapids / Kent County

Public Access Set: Microfilm

Physical Location: Located in the GRHSC Book Collection, Public Service Area. Copying available from microfilm set only

General

Also Available: R.L. Polk & Co.'s 1912 Grand Rapids Street and Avenue Guide and Directory of Householders. 2 photocopies.

Biographical / Historical

In 1912, a major renumbering of many Grand Rapids Streets occurred, changing the historical Canal St., for example, into Monroe Ave., north. This separate 1912 street guide documented those changes. The regular 1912 City Directory for that time period does this as well.
